

Table of Contents

Preface . . . . .	XI
Chapter I – The Task of a Theory of Plausible Reasoning . . . . .	1
1. Cognitive Dissonance. . . . .	1
2. The Problem of Imperfectly Veracious Reports . . . . .	2
3. The Task of Plausibility Theory. . . . .	4
Chapter II – Plausibility Indexing . . . . .	6
1. Sources and Their Reliability . . . . .	6
2. The Idea of a p-Set: Plausible Propositions and the Concept of a ‘Datum’ . . . . .	8
3. From the Reliability of Sources to the Plausibility of Theses . . . . .	10
4. How the Conception of Plausibility Operates . . . . .	14
5. The Formal Rules of Plausibility Indexing . . . . .	15
6. Deductive Closure and Its Implications in the Consistent Case. . . . .	17
7. The Special Source X*: ‘Reasonable Inference’ and p-Set Augmentation . . . . .	19
Chapter III – Some Sample Bases of Plausibility . . . . .	21
1. The Basic Model: Plausibility-Status from Source-Reliability . . . . .	21
2. Plausibility Status from a Multigrade Family of ‘Axiomatic’ Contentions . . . . .	23
3. Plausibility Status from a Hierarchy of Modal Categories. . . . .	23
4. Plausibility Status from Warranting Principles . . . . .	25
Chapter IV – Plausibility and Probability. . . . .	28
1. Underlying Differences in Meaning Between Plausibility and Probability . . . . .	28
2. Resultant Functional Differences . . . . .	31
3. The Systematic Orientation of Plausibility . . . . .	33
4. A Crucial Point of Difference: The Case of Inconsistency. . . . .	35
5. Common Origins. . . . .	36
Chapter V – Plausibility Indexing in the Inconsistent Case. . . . .	40
1. Whence Inconsistency? . . . . .	40
2. Plausibility Indexing in the Absence of Consistency . . . . .	40

3. The Special Source X# p-Set Augmentation by 'Rounding Off' . . . .	42
4. The Potential Need for Revisions in the Inconsistent Case . . . . .	44
5. Complications in Adding Consequences to Inconsistent p-Sets: The Neutralization Rule . . . . .	45
Chapter VI – Plausibility Screening in the Inconsistent Case. . . . .	49
1. Plausibility Analysis . . . . .	49
2. A Strategy of m.c.s.-Elimination . . . . .	50
3. The Idea of p-Consequences. . . . .	53
4. Two Alternative Approaches to Plausibility Screening: Plausibility Tropism vs. Implausibility Phobia. . . . .	53
5. Plausibility and Presumption . . . . .	56
6. The Purely Comparative Nature of Plausibility Analysis . . . . .	59
Chapter VII – The Plausibility of Arguments . . . . .	60
1. Enthymematic Plausibility . . . . .	60
2. Illustrations of the Approach . . . . .	62
3. Credibility Enhancement. . . . .	65
Chapter VIII – Applications of Plausibility Theory: Informa- tion Processing with Inconsistent Data . . . . .	71
1. Preliminaries . . . . .	71
2. Information Processing: Inconsistent Historical Sources . . . . .	72
3. Historiographic Method. . . . .	76
Chapter IX – Applications of Plausibility Theory: Hypothetical Reasoning . . . . .	80
1. Belief-Contravening Hypotheses and Hypothetical Inference . . . . .	80
2. The Contextual Ambiguity of Belief-Contravening Hypotheses. . . . .	80
3. The Problem of Counterfactual Conditionals. . . . .	83
4. Plausibility as Meeting the Need for a 'Principle of Rejection and Retention' . . . . .	86
5. The Resolution of the Problem of Counterfactual Conditionals as an Exercise in Plausibility-Analysis. . . . .	90
6. The Analysis of More Complex Examples. . . . .	92
Chapter X – Applications of Plausibility Theory: Inductive Infe- rence and Scientific Reasoning . . . . .	97
1. Background: The Information-Processing View of Inference. . . . .	97
2. The Plausibilistic Treatment of Induction. . . . .	98
3. The Issue of 'Inductive Logic'. . . . .	101
4. Simplicity as a Plausibilistic Guide to Inductive Reasoning . . . . .	102
5. Uniformity as a Plausibilistic Guide to Inductive Reasoning. . . . .	104
6. Inference Regarding Explanatory Hypotheses. . . . .	108
7. An Illustration from the History of Science. . . . .	109
8. How the Present Enthymematic Treatment of Induction Differs from Others . . . . .	110

Chapter XI – Plausibility Assessment. . . . .	111
1. The Plausibility of Data . . . . .	111
2. Reappraising the Criteria of Plausibility-Assessment . . . . .	112
3. Plausibility Dynamics . . . . .	113
4. Plausibility in Science . . . . .	116
5. The Self-Correction of Plausibilistic Principles. . . . .	117
Bibliography. . . . .	120
a. Plausible Reasoning in General . . . . .	120
b. Plausible Reasoning in Science . . . . .	121
c. Plausible Reasoning in Mathematics . . . . .	122
d. The 'Logic' of Plausible Reasoning. . . . .	122
Name Index . . . . .	123