

CONTENTS

Foreword.....	vii
Jorge Cañizares-Esquerro

Introduction
The Atlantic Turn: Rethinking the Ibero-American Atlantic	1
Harald E. Braun and Lisa Vollendorf

PART ONE

DEFINING THE IBERO-AMERICAN ATLANTIC

The Iberian Atlantic: Ties, Networks, and Boundaries.....	15
Francisco Bethencourt

Understanding the Lusophone Atlantic.....	37
David Brookshaw

The Iberian Atlantic, 1492–2012.....	51
José C. Moya

“A Hemisphere to Itself”: The American Revolution and the Entangled History of the Western Atlantic	75
Eliga H. Gould

PART TWO

EARLY MODERN EXCHANGES: IDENTITIES AND TIES (1492–1850)

Gender in the Atlantic World: Women’s Writing in Iberia and Latin America.....	99
Lisa Vollendorf and Grady C. Wray

Between Ethnicity, Commerce, Religion, and Race: The Elusive Definition of an Early Modern Jewish Atlantic	117
David Graizbord

Scientific Practices in the Sixteenth-Century Iberian Atlantic.....	141
Mauricio Nieto Olarte

Literary Exchange in the Portuguese-Brazilian Atlantic before 1822.....	159
Vanda Anastácio

PART THREE

TRANSATLANTIC MIGRATIONS: CULTURE AND HISTORY
RECONSIDERED (1850-TODAY)

The Origins of Atlantic Modernism and the Spanish-Speaking World.....	175
Andrew Ginger

Hidden in Plain View: Catalans and the Making of Modern Uruguay	199
Thomas Harrington

Theses on the Politics of Memory across the Atlantic.....	221
Luis Martín-Cabrera

Domesticity, Motherhood, and Transnational Reproductive Work in Contemporary Latin American Immigration to Spain.....	241
Daniela Flesler and N. Michelle Shepherd

Epilogue Transatlantic Hispanism or Ibero-Atlanticism?.....	265
Joan Ramon Resina

Works Cited.....	273
Notes on Contributors.....	303
Index.....	309