

Contents

Foreword	ix
Translator's Preface	xi
"When our eyes touch . . ."	I
Signing a Question— from Aristotle

PART I: THIS IS—OF THE OTHER

§ 1	Psyche	II
	"Around her, with such exact and cruel knowledge"
§ 2	Spacings	20
	The Incommensurable, Syncope, and Words Beginning with 'ex-'
§ 3	This Is My Body	36
	Points Already: Counterpoint, Mourning Psyche, and the Hand of . . .
§ 4	The Untouchable, or the Vow of Abstinence	66
	The Exorbitant, 1—Tact "beyond the possible"—Stroking, Striking, Thinking, Weighing: Mourning Eros and the Other Hand of . . .
§ 5	Tender	92
	This Is My Heart, "the heart of another"
§ 6	Nothing to Do in Sight: "There's no 'the' sense of touch"	III
	Haptics, 'technē,' or Body Ecotechnics

PART II: EXEMPLARY STORIES OF THE “FLESH”

- § 7 Tangent I 135
Hand of Man, Hand of God
- § 8 Tangent II 159
“For example, my hand”—“The hand itself”—“For example, the finger”—“For example, I feel my heart”
- § 9 Tangent III 183
The Exorbitant, 2, “Crystallization of the impossible”: “Flesh,” and, again, “For example, my hand”
- § 10 Tangent IV 216
Tangency and Contingency, 1: The “question of technics” and the “aporias” of Flesh, “(contact, at bottom)”
- § 11 Tangent V 244
Tangency and Contingency, 2: “The ‘merciful hand of the Father,’ with which he thus touches us, is the Son. . . . the Word that is ‘the touch that touches the Soul’ (toque de la Divinidad . . . el toque que toca al alma)”

PART III: PUNCTUATIONS: “AND YOU.”

- § 12 “To self-touch you” 265
Touching—Language and the Heart
- § 13 “And to you.” The Incalculable 281
Exactitude, Punctuality, Punctuation
- Salve* 300
Untimely Postscript, for Want of a Final Retouch

Χαῖρε

- Salut to you, salut to the blind we become* 313
Jean-Luc Nancy
- Notes* 317
- Index of Names* 375