

Contents

Introduction	page 1
1 New work for a theory of universals	8
2 Putnam's paradox	56
3 Against structural universals	78
4 A comment on Armstrong and Forrest	108
5 Extrinsic properties	111
6 Defining 'intrinsic' (with Rae Langton)	116
7 Finkish dispositions	133
8 Noneism or allism?	152
9 Many, but almost one	164
10 Casati and Varzi on holes (with Stephanie Lewis)	183
11 Rearrangement of particles: Reply to Lowe	187
12 Armstrong on combinatorial possibility	196
13 A world of truthmakers?	215
14 Maudlin and modal mystery	221
15 Humean Supervenience debugged	224
16 Psychophysical and theoretical identifications	248
17 What experience teaches	262
18 Reduction of mind	291
19 Should a materialist believe in qualia?	325
20 Naming the colours	332
21 Percepts and color mosaics in visual experience	359
22 Individuation by acquaintance and by stipulation	373
23 Why conditionalize?	403
24 What puzzling Pierre does not believe	408
25 Elusive knowledge	418
Index	447