1. The Definition of Metaphysics	1
2. 'The Most General ...'	2
3. '... Attempt ...'	4
4. '... to Make Sense of Things'	5
5. Metaphysics and Self-Conscious Reflection	7
6. Three Questions	8
(a) The Transcendence Question	9
(b) The Novelty Question	10
(c) The Creativity Question	13
(d) The Significance of the Three Questions	14
7. The Importance of Metaphysics	16
8. Prospectus	21
PART ONE THE EARLY MODERN PERIOD
1. Descartes: Metaphysics in the Service of Science	25
1. Introduction	25
2. The Nature of the Project: Metaphysics as Providing Science with Foundations	26
3. The Execution of the Project	29
4. The Shape of Descartes' System. Its Epistemology	36
5. Analogues of Descartes' Argument for the Existence of God in Contemporary Analytic Philosophy	38
6. 'The Disenchantment of the World'	40
2. Spinoza: Metaphysics in the Service of Ethics	44
1. Introduction	44
2. Substance	45
3. Nature, Human Nature, and the Model of Human Nature	50
4. Making Sense of Things as an Ethical Achievement	56

5. The Three Kinds of Knowledge	58
6. Metaphysical Knowledge as Knowledge of the Second Kind	64
3. Leibniz: Metaphysics in the Service of Theodicy	67
1. The Apotheosis of Making Sense of Things	67
2. The Problem of Theodicy	69
3. Leibniz' System	71
4. Leibniz' Various Modal Distinctions	78
5. Leibniz' Solution to the Problem of Theodicy. Its Unsatisfactoriness	83
4. Hume: Metaphysics Committed to the Flames?	87
1. Empiricism and Scepticism in Hume	87
2. The Semantic Element in Hume's Empiricism and the Epistemic Element in Hume's Empiricism	90
3. Relations of Ideas and Matters of Fact	95
4. Metaphysics as an Experimental Science of Human Nature	97
5. Metaphysics as More Than an Experimental Science of Human Nature	100
Appendix: Scepticism About Human Reasoning	104
5. Kant: The Possibility, Scope, and Limits of Metaphysics	107
1. Introduction	107
2. Bad Metaphysics and Good Metaphysics	109
3. Synthetic A Priori Knowledge	112
4. How Synthetic A Priori Knowledge Is Possible: Transcendental Idealism	116
5. Good Metaphysics: The 'Transcendental Analytic'	123
6. Bad Metaphysics: The 'Transcendental Dialectic'	124
7. The Regulative Use of Concepts	130
8. Thick Sense-Making and Thin Sense-Making	133
9. Sense-Making That Is Neither Straightforwardly Thin nor Straightforwardly Thick	137
10. The Unsatisfactoriness of Kant's Metaphysics	140
Appendix: Transcendental Idealism Broadly Construed	142
6. Fichte: Transcendentalism versus Naturalism	143
1. German Philosophy in the Immediate Aftermath of Kant	143
2. The Choice Between Transcendentalism and Naturalism	145
3. Fichte's System I: The Subject's Intuition of Itself	151
4. Fichte's System II: Conditions of the Subject's Intuition of Itself. The System's Self-Vindication	155
Appendix: Shades of Fichte in Kant	159
7. Hegel: Transcendentalism-cum-Naturalism; or, Absolute Idealism	162
1. Preliminaries	162

2. Hegel's Recoil from Kant's Transcendental Idealism	164
3. 'What is rational is actual, and what is actual is rational'	167
4. Hegel's Logic and the Absolute Idea	169
5. Three Concerns	174
6. Shades of Spinoza in Hegel?	177
7. Contradiction, Reason, and Understanding	182
8. Hegel Contra Kant Again. Absolute Idealism	187
9. The Implications for Metaphysics	191

PART TWO THE LATE MODERN PERIOD I: THE ANALYTIC TRADITION

8. Frege: Sense Under Scrutiny	195
1. What Is Frege Doing Here?	195
2. The Project: Arithmetic as a Branch of Logic	199
3. The Execution of the Project	202
4. Sense and Bedeutung	207
5. The Admissibility of Definitions	209
6. The Objectivity of Sense. The Domain of Logic	211
7. Two Problems	216
(a) The Set of Sets That Do Not Belong to Themselves	216
(b) The Property of Being a Horse	217
8. The Implications for Metaphysics	220
9. The Early Wittgenstein: The Possibility, Scope, and Limits of Sense; or, Sense, Senselessness, and Nonsense	222
1. Why Two Wittgensteins?	222
2. Wittgenstein's Conception of Philosophy	223
3. The Vision of the Tractatus	227
4. Logic. Wittgenstein Contra Frege and Kant	231
5. 'Anyone who understands me eventually recognizes my propositions as nonsensical'	235
6. Two Approaches to the Tractatus . A Rapprochement?	238
7. Transcendental Idealism in the Tractatus	241
8. Metaphysics in the Service of Ethics	248
10. The Later Wittgenstein: Bringing Words Back from Their Metaphysical to Their Everyday Use	255
1. Wittgenstein's Conception of Philosophy: A Reprise	255
2. Differences Between the Early Work and the Later Work	257
3. Metaphysics, Necessity, and Grammar	261
4. Transcendental Idealism in the Later Work?	268
5. Distinguishing Between the 'Everyday' and the 'Metaphysical'	271
6. Taking Words Away from Their Everyday to a Metaphysical Use?	275

11. Carnap: The Elimination of Metaphysics?	279
1. Logical Positivism	279
2. Carnap's Version of Logical Positivism. Linguistic Frameworks	281
3. A First (Themed) Retrospective	283
(a) Hume	283
(b) Kant	284
(c) Frege	286
(d) The Early Wittgenstein	287
(e) The Later Wittgenstein	289
4. Glances Ahead	290
(a) Quine	290
(b) Heidegger	291
5. The Implications for Metaphysics	292
(a) The Implications for Metaphysics on Carnap's Own Conception of Metaphysics	292
(b) The Implications for Metaphysics on My Conception of Metaphysics	295
(c) Carnap on Alternative Conceptions of Metaphysics	296
6. Tu Quoque?	297
12. Quine: The Ne Plus Ultra of Naturalism	302
1. Introduction	302
2. Quine: Empiricist, Naturalist, Physicalist	303
(a) Quine's Empiricism	303
(b) Quine's Naturalism	304
(c) Quine's Physicalism	305
3. Relations Between Quine's Empiricism, Naturalism, and Physicalism	306
4. Some Distinctions Rejected ...	312
5. ... and a New One Introduced	316
6. Quinean Metaphysics I: An Overview	318
7. Quinean Metaphysics II: Ontology	321
8. Objections to Quine's Naturalism	324
Appendix: Can Quine Consistently Reject the Distinctions He Rejects and Espouse the Indeterminacy/Underdetermination Distinction?	327
13. Lewis: Metaphysics in the Service of Philosophy	329
1. Analytic Philosophy in the Immediate Aftermath of Quine	329
2. Lewis' Quinean Credentials; or, Lewis: Empiricist, Naturalist, Physicalist	331
3. Modal Realism	335
4. Concerns About Modal Realism. The Concerns Removed, but the Shortcomings of Lewis' Metaphysics Thereby Revealed	339

14. Dummett: The Logical Basis of Metaphysics	345
1. In Retrospect and in Prospect	345
2. Realism and Anti-Realism	350
3. Three Replies to Dummett's Anti-Realist Challenge	355
(a) First Reply	355
(b) Second Reply	357
(c) Third Reply	360
4. Is Anti-Realism a Form of Transcendental Idealism?	362
5. In Further Retrospect and in Further Prospect	366

PART THREE THE LATE MODERN PERIOD II:
NON-ANALYTIC TRADITIONS

15. Nietzsche: Sense Under Scrutiny Again	369
1. Introduction	371
2. Truth, the Pursuit of Truth, and the Will to Truth	373
3. Prospects for Metaphysics I: Perspectivism	379
4. Prospects for Metaphysics II: Grammar	383
5. Prospects for Metaphysics III: Transcendence	386
6. Nietzsche's Vision. Truth Again	388
7. Nietzsche Pro Spinoza and Contra Hegel	396
(a) Nietzsche Pro Spinoza	396
(b) Nietzsche Contra Hegel	398
8. Eternal Return	400
16. Bergson: Metaphysics as Pure Creativity	406
1. Introduction	406
2. Analysis (or Intelligence) versus Intuition	407
3. Space versus Duration. The Actual versus the Virtual. The Real versus the Possible	411
4. Identity versus Difference	419
5. Bergson Compared with Some of His Predecessors	420
(a) Bergson Compared with Fichte	420
(b) Bergson Compared with Spinoza and Nietzsche	421
6. The Implications for Metaphysics	422
(a) The Implications for Metaphysics on Bergson's Own Conception of Metaphysics	422
(b) The Implications for Metaphysics on the Analytic Conception of Metaphysics	425
(c) The Implications for Metaphysics on the Intuitive Conception of Metaphysics	425
17. Husserl: Making Sense of Making Sense; or, The Ne Plus Ultra of Transcendentalism	429
1. Husserl Vis-à-Vis the Analytic Tradition	429
2. The Phenomenological Reduction	432

3. Why Husserl Is Unlike Descartes (But Not Unlike Wittgenstein)	435
4. The Execution of the Project	439
5. The Eidetic Reduction	444
6. Idealism in Husserl	447
7. Husserl as Metaphysician	455
18. Heidegger: Letting Being Be	459
1. Introduction	459
2. Heidegger as Phenomenologist, Pro Husserl and Contra Husserl; or, Three Characterizations of Phenomenology	459
(a) First Characterization	459
(b) Second Characterization	461
(c) Third Characterization	462
3. The Execution of the Project. Dasein	466
4. Overcoming the Tradition	471
5. Heidegger as Metaphysician	477
6. Metaphysics as Poetry	479
7. Idealism in Heidegger?	485
19. Collingwood: Metaphysics as History	493
1. Introduction	493
2. Absolute Presuppositions and Metaphysics as the Study of Them	493
3. A Second (Themed) Retrospective	500
(a) Hume	500
(b) Kant	500
(c) Hegel (and Bergson)	502
(d) The Later Wittgenstein	503
(e) Carnap and the Logical Positivists	505
(f) The Phenomenologists	507
(g) Coda	508
4. Collingwood's Conservatism. The Possibilities Afforded by Non-Propositional Sense-Making	508
20. Derrida: Metaphysics Deconstructed?	512
1. A Foretaste	512
2. Derrida Vis-à-Vis Phenomenology; or, Derrida Pro Heidegger and Contra Husserl	512
(a) Derrida Pro Heidegger	512
(b) Derrida Contra Husserl	516
3. Speech and Writing	518
4. Deconstruction	527
5. Différance	530
6. How to Do Things with Words	535
7. Whither Metaphysics?	538

Appendix: The Distinction Between Using an Expression and Mentioning It	539
21. Deleuze: Something Completely Different	542
1. Introduction	542
2. A Third (Themed) Retrospective	543
(a) Deleuze's Three Great Heroes: Bergson, Nietzsche, Spinoza	545
(b) Hegel	550
(c) Leibniz	550
(d) Hume	551
(e) Kant	552
(f) Heidegger	553
3. Difference	554
4. The Execution of the Project. Sense	560
5. The Dogmatic Image of Thought	568
(a) Representation	568
(b) Common Sense and Good Sense	569
(c) Clarity and Distinctness	570
(d) Four Assumptions	571
6. The Nature of Problems, The Nature of Concepts, and the Nature of Philosophy; or, Metaphysics as the Creation of Concepts	572
7. Three Answers	578
(a) The Transcendence Question	578
(b) The Creativity Question	579
(c) The Novelty Question	580
Conclusion	581
1. Varieties of Sense-Making	581
2. History	585
3. The Wittgenstein Question	588
(a) Consent	588
An Interlude on Vagueness	590
(b) Dissent	593
4. Creation and Innovation in Metaphysics	595
5. Metaphysics as a Humanistic Discipline	600
