

CONTENTS

Introduction	ix
A Note on the Text	xxix
Acknowledgments	xxxix

A Compend of Logic	i
--------------------	---

Dissertation on the Origin of Philosophy and Its Principal Founders and Exponents	3
Prolegomena	9
PART I. On Apprehension	11
PART II. On the Noetic Judgment and the Proposition	23
PART III. On Discourse	31
Appendix on Topics, Fallacies, and Method	49

A Synopsis of Metaphysics Comprehending Ontology and Pneumatology	57
--	----

The Arguments of the Chapters	59
PART I. On Being and the Common Attributes of Things	65
CHAPTER 1. On Being (De Ente)	65
CHAPTER 2. On the Axioms of Metaphysics	74
CHAPTER 3. On the Properties of Being	78

CHAPTER 4. On the Principal Divisions of Being	87
CHAPTER 5. On the Categories and the General Properties of Being	101
PART II. On the Human Mind	III
CHAPTER 1. On the Powers of the Mind, and First on the Understanding	III
CHAPTER 2. On the Will	126
CHAPTER 3. Whether Spirit Is a Different Thing from Body	138
CHAPTER 4. On the Union of the Mind with the Body, and on a Separate State	145
PART III. On God	151
CHAPTER 1. In Which It Is Shown That There Is a God	152
CHAPTER 2. On the Natural Virtues of God	162
CHAPTER 3. On the Divine Virtues Concerned with Understanding	168
CHAPTER 4. On the Will of God	173
CHAPTER 5. On the Operations of God	180
On the Natural Sociability of Mankind	189
Inaugural Oration	191
Bibliography	217
Index	225