

CONTENTS

- Introduction 3

- 1. Problems of Causal Redundancy 9
 - 1.1 The Threat of Causal Exclusion 10
 - 1.2 The Threat of Overdetermination 15
 - 1.3 Other Apparent Redundancies 20
 - 1.4 The Difference between Baseballs and Minds 24

- 2. Analyticity and Conceptual Content 28
 - 2.1 One Dogma of Quineans 29
 - 2.2 Truth by Convention 32
 - 2.3 Causal Theories of Reference and the Qua Problem 38
 - 2.4 The Basis of Analytic Entailments 44
 - 2.5 The Problem of Nonexistence Claims 45
 - 2.6 Objections to Hybrid Theories of Reference 48

- 3. Identity, Persistence, and Modality 54
 - 3.1 Existence, Identity, and Persistence Conditions 55
 - 3.2 Modal Truths 62
 - 3.3 Modal Conceptualism and Objectual Antirealism 63
 - 3.4 Analyticity and Truth-Makers 68
 - 3.5 Modal Properties 70

4. Problems of Colocation 73
 - 4.1 'Nothing Over and Above' 75
 - 4.2 The No Coincidence Principle 78
 - 4.3 Property Additivity 80
 - 4.4 The Grounding Problem 81

5. Problems of Vagueness 87
 - 5.1 Sorites-Style Arguments 88
 - 5.2 The Source of Vagueness 90
 - 5.3 Solutions to the Problems of Vagueness 95
 - 5.4 Vagueness and Contextual Semantics 100
 - 5.5 Is There Vagueness in the World? 104
 - 5.6 Can There Be Vague Objects? 107

6. Handling Existence Questions 110
 - 6.1 Specific Existence Questions 111
 - 6.2 Generic Existence Questions 112
 - 6.3 Bare Quantification 115
 - 6.4 Quantifier Variance 118
 - 6.5 The Number of Objects 119
 - 6.6 Can We Revive the General Question? 121

7. The Special Composition Problem 126
 - 7.1 Uniform Answers to the Special Composition Question 127
 - 7.2 Nonuniform Answers to the Special Composition Question 130
 - 7.3 Behind the Special Composition Question 134

8. Problems of Rivalry with Science 137
 - 8.1 The Case for a Conflict 138
 - 8.2 The Case for a Rivalry 144
 - 8.3 Is There Really a Rivalry? 147

9. Parsimony and Ontological Commitment 151
 - 9.1 Parsimony's Plausibility 152
 - 9.2 Parsimony and Counting 154
 - 9.3 The Case for Ordinary Objects 155
 - 9.4 Trivial Transformations and Ontological Commitments 159
 - 9.5 The Point of Paraphrase 168

9.6	Are We Committed to Extraordinary Objects?	170
9.7	The Price of Avoiding Ordinary Objects	173
10.	A Coherent Common Sense View	176
10.1	A Unified Diagnosis	177
10.2	The Basis for a Common Sense View	180
10.3	Too Many Objects?	183
10.4	The Specter of Antirealism	185
11.	The Methods of Metaphysics	188
11.1	Identity and Persistence Questions	189
11.2	Existence Questions	192
11.3	Genuine Debates and Merely Apparent Debates	195
11.4	What's an Ontologist to Do?	199
