CONTENTS

Part I. Singular Thought and Acquaintance: Rejecting Descriptivism

1. Singularism vs Descriptivism 3
2. Can Descriptivism Account for Singularity? 15

Part II. Introducing Files

3. Non-Descriptive Modes of Presentation as Mental Files 27
4. Mental Files and Identity 42

Part III. The Indexical Model

5. Mental Indexicals 57
6. Stable Files 68
7. The Dynamics of Files 76

Part IV. Mental Files and Co-Reference

8. The Circularity Objection 91

   Appendix: Incremental Conversion and the Origin of Concepts 102

9. Co-reference De Jure: The Transitivity Objection 104

Part V. Epistemic Transparency

10. Slow Switching 115

11. Transparency and its Limits 133

Part VI. Beyond Acquaintance

12. Descriptive Names 147

13. Singular Thought without Acquaintance 159

Part VII. Vicarious Files

14. Mental Files in Attitude Ascription 181

15. Indexed Files at Work 193

Part VIII. The Communication of Singular Thoughts

16. Frege and the Sense of 'I' 209

17. Reference through Mental Files: Indexicals and Definite Descriptions 221

Part IX. Conclusion

18. The Mental File Framework and its Competitors 243

References 260

Index 273