

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgments	xi
1. Introduction	1
PART I: SELF-KNOWLEDGE
2. Individualism and Self-Knowledge (1988)	55
3. Our Entitlement to Self-Knowledge (1996)	68
4. Memory and Self-Knowledge (1998)	88
5. A Century of Deflation and a Moment about Self-Knowledge (1999)	104
6. Mental Agency in Authoritative Self-Knowledge: Reply to Kobes (2003)	123
7–9. Self and Self-Understanding: The Dewey Lectures (2007, 2011)	140
Lecture I: Some Origins of Self	140
Lecture II: Self and Constitutive Norms	166
Lecture III: Self-Understanding	187
PART II: INTERLOCUTION
10. Content Preservation (1993)	229
11. Postscript: ‘Content Preservation’ (2011)	254
12. Interlocution, Perception, and Memory (1997)	285
13. Computer Proof, Apriori Knowledge, and Other Minds (1998)	306
14. Comprehension and Interpretation (1999)	342
15. A Warrant for Belief in Other Minds (1999, 2011)	362
PART III: REASONING AND THE INDIVIDUALITY OF PERSONS
16. Reason and the First Person (1998)	383
17. Memory and Persons (2003)	407

vi Contents

18. De Se Preservation and Personal Identity: Reply to Shoemaker (2011)	447
19. Modest Dualism (2010)	471
20. Epistemic Warrant: Humans and Computers (2011)	489

PART IV: REFLECTION

21. Reasoning about Reasoning (1979)	511
22. Reply to Benejam (2003): 'Thought Experiments and Semantic Competence'	516
23. Concepts, Conceptions, Reflective Understanding: Reply to Peacocke (2003)	521
24. Reflection (2004)	534
25. Living Wages of Sinn (2012)	556
Bibliography	595
Author Index	609
Subject Index	612