

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements	ix
1. Narrative Thinking	1
Introduction: Finding the Right Place for Narrative in Our Lives	1
What a Narrative Is	2
Narrative Structure	13
Conclusion	25
2. Narrative Thinking about One's Past	26
Introduction: Internal and External Perspectives in Narrative Thinking	26
Dramatic Irony	26
As We Grow Up: Diverging Perspectives in Literature and in Real Life	30
Free Indirect Style and the Narrator's External Perspective	32
Autobiographical Narrative Thinking and the Problem of the Audience	40
Autobiographical Memory and General Events	43
Free Indirect Style and Memory	48
Construction not Retrieval	53
Conclusion	54
3. Grief: A Case Study	56
Introduction: The Narratable Process of Grief	56
Grief is Not a Kind of Mental State or Event	57
Grief is a Kind of Process	61
The Narrative of a Grieving: Free Indirect Style and General Events	64
Two Narrative Accounts of Grief	67
Traumatic Experience and the Desire for Emotional Closure	70
Telling to Others	72
Showing to Others	74
Conclusion	75
4. Narrative Thinking about One's Future	76
Introduction: Imagination and Emotion as Guides in Practical Reason	76
Imagination, Emotion, and Branching Possibilities	76
Regret, and Learning from Our Mistakes	85
Planning, Policies, and Character	89
Learning to See and to Feel	91
Conclusion	97

5. Self-forgiveness: A Case Study	98
Introduction: The Paradoxical Appearance of Self-forgiveness	98
Forgiveness of Others	99
The Relation between Forgiveness of Others and Self-forgiveness	101
Why, and in What Circumstances, Do We Need Self-forgiveness?	102
The Norms of Self-forgiveness and the Narrative Sense of Self	106
Pardon and Self-forgiveness	110
Conclusion	116
6. The Narrative Sense of Self	117
Introduction: A Metaphysically 'Light' Sense of Self	117
The Narrative Sense of Self	118
The Narrative Sense of Self, Personal Identity, and Survival	124
The Stable Self and Narrative Self-constitution	128
The Stable Self and Empathic Access	132
The Stable Self and its Epistemic Difficulties	135
The Mistaken Ideal of the Stable Self	142
Making up Our Minds and Breakdowns in Narrativity	146
Conclusion	148
7. Narrative, Truth, Life, and Fiction	150
Introduction: Truth and Objectivity and the Dangers of our Fictionalizing Tendencies	150
The Possibility of Truth in Narrative	152
The Possibility of Objectivity in Narrative	155
The First Fictionalizing Tendency: We Plot Out Our Lives	161
The Second Fictionalizing Tendency: Finding Agency in the World Where It Is Not	162
The Third Fictionalizing Tendency: Narrative Thread and the Desire for Closure	164
The Fourth Fictionalizing Tendency: Genre and Character	168
A Summary and a Speculation	171
Conclusion	173
References	174
Index	183