

CONTENTS

PART ONE: MAN AS A SOCIAL AND AN ALIENATED BEING

I. The Marx of Recent Criticism	3
II. The Essential Nature of Man (1): Marxism Compared with Earlier Theories	36
III. The Essential Nature of Man (2): Hegel and Marx Compared	61
IV. Alienation (1): Hegel and Marx Compared	87
V. Alienation (2): The Condition as Marx Describes it	115
VI. The Causes of Alienation. Appendix: On Surmounting the Division of Labour	147
VII. The Revolutionary Class and the Revolutionary Temper	173

PART TWO: THE FORMS OF ALIENATED LIFE

VIII. False Consciousness and the Forms of Alienated Life	205
IX. Religion	227
X. Morality, Bourgeois and Human	249
XI. The State as a Form of Alienated Life	277

PART THREE: THE RADICAL'S DILEMMA IN INDUSTRIAL SOCIETY

Preface to Part Three	317
XII. Self-Realization and Freedom	322
XIII. Freedom, Equality, and Proletarian Democracy	357
XIV. Conflict and Harmony	397
XV. Conclusions	446
Index	473