

CONTENTS

PREFACE	11
CHAPTER ONE—INTRODUCTION: THE QUESTION ABOUT REALITY	13
1. Man and Reality	13
2. Human Knowledge	19
Bibliography	25
CHAPTER TWO—THE MEANING OF REALITY AND THE PHENOMENOLOGICAL REDUCTION	26
1. A New Beginning	26
2. Meaning and Concrete Being	30
3. The Phenomenological Reduction	39
Bibliography	51
CHAPTER THREE—THE EGO IN THE PHENOMENOLOGY OF HUSSERL	53
1. The Problem in Historical Perspective	53
2. The Phenomenological Declension of the Ego	57
3. The Paradox of the Transcendental Ego	63
Bibliography	66
CHAPTER FOUR—TIME IN THE PHENOMENOLOGY OF HUSSERL	67
1. The Time of the Transcendental Ego	67
2. The Concretization of the Concept of Time	76

3. The Compenetration of Abstract and Concrete Time	84
Bibliography	91
CHAPTER FIVE—THE IMPORTANCE OF HUSSERL'S PHENOMENOLOGY FOR ONTOLOGY
1. The Many Possible Worlds	92
2. The Ontology of the Contingent	102
Bibliography	112
CHAPTER SIX—AUGUSTINE'S PHENOMENOLOGY OF TIME
1. Time According to Augustine and Husserl	113
2. Temporality and the Meaning of Reality	124
Bibliography	133
CHAPTER SEVEN—BERKELEY'S PHENOMENOLOGY OF REALITY
1. Analytic Aspect	135
2. Phenomenological Aspect	146
3. Metaphysical Aspect	155
Bibliography	166
CHAPTER EIGHT—BERGSON'S PHENOMENOLOGY OF PERCEPTION
1. Bergson's Philosophy of Phenomena	167
2. Bergson's Theory of Perception	172
3. Phenomenology and Theory of Science	181
Bibliography	188
CHAPTER NINE—EDMUND HUSSERL AND LUDWIG WITTGENSTEIN
1. The Question About the Meaning of Phenomena ..	189
2. The Philosophy of the "Rules"	194
3. The Role of the Ego	201
4. The Inexpressible	207
Bibliography	213

CHAPTER TEN—THE HORIZON OF REALITY	214
1. The Horizon as "Translation" of Man Into Reality	214
2. Finiteness and Transcendence	222
3. The Anthropology of the Horizon	232
Bibliography	238
CHAPTER ELEVEN—THE COMMUNICATIVE DIMENSION OF REALITY	239
1. The Validity of Reality	239
2. The Communication of the Everyday World	246
3. The Story of Reality	252
Bibliography	259
INDEX OF NAMES	260
INDEX OF SUBJECT MATTER	262