

Contents

Preface ix

| | |
|---|----|
| 1. Introduction: The Significance of the Other in Husserl's Systematic Philosophy | 1 |
| One. The Goal and Method of Phenomenology | 1 |
| Two. Methodological Difficulties with Constituting the Other and the Intersubjectivity | 8 |
| Three. Some Terminological Distinctions | 14 |
| Four. A Sketch of the Remainder of the Work | 20 |
| 2. Preliminary Considerations | 25 |
| One. The Subjective Standpoint: The First Reduction | 25 |
| Two. The Second Reduction: Its Motivations and Fruits, Application and Import | 29 |
| Three. The Immanent "Content" of the Ownness Sphere | 36 |
| Four. Beyond Ownness | 43 |
| 3. The Theory | 47 |
| One. Mutual Meaning-Bestowal in the Pair | 49 |
| Two. Presence and Absence in the Unity of the Pair | 58 |
| Three. Ownness and Spatiality | 65 |
| Four. The Constitution of the Intersubjectivity, Nature, World | 71 |
| 4. Consequences | 77 |
| One. The Extension of the Other into "Communities of Higher Orders" | 79 |
| Two. Metaphysical Results: Transcendental Ontologies | 84 |
| Three. The Analogy Between Phenomenological Constitution and Child Development | 92 |
| Four. The Vanished Illusion | 99 |

| | |
|---|-----|
| 5. Husserl's Critique of Reason | 103 |
| One. Essential Difficulties in the Constitution of Otherness | 103 |
| Two. Evidence and the Intersubjectivity: Reason and Reality | 107 |
| Three. The Theory of Evidence | 109 |
| Four. Conclusion | 116 |
| 6. Extensions of the Phenomenological Account of the Other | 121 |
| One. Empathetic Processes | 124 |
| Two. Empathy, Rationality, and Moral Community | 135 |
| 7. Phenomenology, Postmodernity, and Possibility | 145 |
| One. Praxis | 145 |
| Two. Husserl's Postmodernism | 149 |
| Three. Intersubjectivity and Foundational Philosophy | 153 |
| | |
| Selected Bibliography | 165 |
| | |
| Index | 173 |