

Contents

Translator's Acknowledgments ix

Translator's Introduction xi

Art, Society, Aesthetics 1

Art's Self-Evidence Lost 1—Against the Question of Origin 2—Truth Content and the Life of Works 3—On the Relation of Art and Society 4—Critique of the Psychoanalytic Theory of Art 8—The Art Theories of Kant and Freud 9—"The Pleasure of Art" 13—Aesthetic Hedonism and the Happiness of Knowledge 14

Situation 16

Disintegration of the Material 16—Deaestheticization of Art, Critique of the Culture Industry 16—Language of Suffering 18—The New: Its Philosophy of History 19—On the Problem of Invariance; Experiment (I) 23—Defense of Isms 24—Isms as Secularized Schools 25—Feasibility and Accident; Modernity and Quality 26—"Second Reflection" 26—The New and Duration 27—Dialectic of Integration and the "Subjective Point" 29—The New, Utopia and Negativity 32—Modern Art and Industrial Production 33—Aesthetic Rationality and Criticism 34—Canon of Prohibitions 35—Experiment (II), Seriousness and Irresponsibility 37—Black as an Ideal 39—Relation to Tradition 40—Subjectivity and Collective 41—Solipsism, Mimetic Taboo, and Maturity 42—Métier 43—Expression and Construction 44

On the Categories of the Ugly, the Beautiful, and Technique 45

On the Category of the Ugly 45—Ugliness: Its Social Aspect and Its Philosophy of History 48—On the Concept of the Beautiful 50—Mimesis and Rationality 53—On the Concept of Construction 56—Technology 58—Dialectic of Functionalism 60

Natural Beauty 61

Condemnation of Natural Beauty 61—Natural Beauty as a “Stepping Out into the Open” 63—On Cultural Landscape 64—Natural Beauty and Art Beauty Are Interlocked 65—The Experience of Nature Is Historically Deformed 68—Aesthetic Apperception Is Analytical 69—Natural Beauty as Suspended History 70—Determinate Indeterminateness 71—Nature as a Cipher of the Reconciled 73—Hegel’s Critique of Natural Beauty: Its Metacritique 74—Transition from Natural to Art Beauty 77

Art Beauty: Apparition, Spiritualization, Intuitability 78

“More” as Semblance 78—Aesthetic Transcendence and Disenchantment 79—Enlightenment and Shudder 79—Art and the Art-Alien 81—The Nonexistent 82—Image Character 83—“Explosion” 84—Image Content Is Collective 85—Art as Spiritual 86—Immanence of Works and the Heterogeneous 88—On Hegel’s Aesthetics of Spirit 90—Dialectic of Spiritualization 91—Spiritualization and the Chaotic 93—Art’s Intuitability Is Aporetic 94—Intuitability and Conceptuality 97

Semblance and Expression 100

Crisis of Semblance 100—Semblance, Meaning, and “tour de force” 105—Toward the Redemption of Semblance 107—Expression and Dissonance 110—Subject-Object 111—Expression as Eloquence 112—Domination and Conceptual Knowledge 113—Expression and Mimesis 114—Dialectic of Inwardness; Aporias of Expression 115

Enigmaticalness, Truth Content, Metaphysics 118

Critique and Redemption of Myth 118—The Mimetic and the Ridiculous 118—Cui bono 119—Enigmaticalness and Understanding 120—“Nothing shall be left unchanged” 122—Enigma, Script, Interpretation 124—Interpretation as Imitation 125—“Block” 126—Fractured Transcendence 126—On the Truth Content of Artworks 127—Art and Philosophy; Collective Content of Art 130—Truth as Semblance of the Illusionless 131—Mimesis of the Fatal and Reconciliation 133—Methexis in Darkness 134

Coherence and Meaning 136

Logicality 136—Logic, Causality, Time 137—Purposefulness without Purpose 139—Form 140—Form and Content 143—The Concept of Articulation (I) 146—On the Concept of Material 147—The Concept of Subject Matter; Intention and Content 149—Intention and Meaning 151—The Crisis of Meaning 152—The Concept of Harmony and the Ideology of Closure 157—Affirmation 159—Critique of Classicism 160

Subject-Object 163

Subjective and Objective are Equivocal; On Aesthetic Feeling 163—Critique of Kant's Concept of Objectivity 165—Precarious Balance 166—Linguistic Quality and Collective Subject 166—Subject-Object Dialectic 168—"Genius" 169—Originality 172—Fantasy and Reflection 173—Objectivity and Reification 174

Toward a Theory of the Artwork 175

Aesthetic Experience Is Processual 175—Transience 178—Artifact and Genesis 178—The Artwork as Monad and Immanent Analysis 179—Art and Artworks 181—History Is Constitutive; "Intelligibility" 182—The Necessity of Objectivation and Dissociation 183—Unity and Multiplicity 186—The Category of Intensity 187—"Why a work can rightfully be said to be beautiful" 188—"Depth" 189—The Concept of Articulation (II) 190—On the Differentiation of Progress 191—Development of Productive Forces 192—The Transformation of Artworks 193—Interpretation, Commentary, Critique 194—Truth Content Is Historical; The Sublime in Nature and Art 194—The Sublime and Play 197

Universal and Particular 199

Nominalism and the Decline of Genres 199—On Antiquity's Genre-Aesthetics 202—Philosophy of History of Conventions 203—On the Concept of Style 205—The Progress of Art 207—The History of Art Is Inhomogeneous 209—Progress and Domination of the Material 210—"Technique" 212—Art in the Industrial Age 217—Nominalism and Open Form 219—Construction, Static and Dynamic 222

Society 225

Double Character of Art; fait social and Autonomy; On the Fetish Character 225—Reception and Production 228—Choice of Thematic Material; Artistic Subject; Relation to Science 229—Art as Compartment 232—Ideology and Truth 233—"Guilt" 234—On the Reception of Advanced Art 235—Mediation of Art and Society 236—Critique of Catharsis; Kitsch and the Vulgar 238—Attitude to Praxis; Effect, Lived Experience, "Shudder" 241—Commitment 246—Aestheti-

cism, Naturalism, Beckett 248—Against Administered Art 250—The Possibility of Art Today 251—Autonomy and Heteronomy 252—Political Option 254—Progress and Reaction 256—Art and the Poverty of Philosophy 258—Primacy of the Object and Art 258—The Problem of Solipsism and False Reconciliation 259

Paralipomena 262

Theories on the Origin of Art 325

Draft Introduction 332

The Obsolescence of Traditional Aesthetics 332—The Changing Function of Naïveté 335—Irreconcilability of Traditional Aesthetics and Contemporary Art 338—Truth-Content and the Fetish Character of Artworks 340—The Need for Aesthetics 341—Aesthetics as the Refuge of Metaphysics 343—Aesthetic Experience as Objective Understanding 345—Work-Immanent Analysis and Aesthetic Theory 348—On the Dialectics of Aesthetic Experience 348—Universal and Particular 350—Critique of the Phenomenological Research of Origin 351—Relation to Hegel's Aesthetics 352—The Open Character of Aesthetics; Aesthetics of Form and Aesthetics of Content (I) 353—Aesthetics of Form and Aesthetics of Content (II); Norms and Slogans 355—Methodology, "Second Reflection," History 357

Editors' Afterword 361

Notes 367

Index 379