

Table of contents

A brief overview of the project	7
List of abbreviations of Aquinas's works	13
§ 1. Goals, state of research, and methodology	15
§ 2. The concept of unity, its basic division, and an outline of the study	19
§ 3. Transcendental and categorial concepts	22
§ 3. 1. The methods of resolution and of synthesis in the orders of science and of definition	24
§ 3. 2. Conceptual addition to being	32
§ 3. 3. Explication of universal modes of being: transcendental concepts	36
§ 3. 4. Explication of special modes of being: categorial concepts	39
§ 3. 5. Derivation of categorial concepts	41
§ 4. The concept of division, transcendental one and many	46
§ 4. 1. One expresses negation in the manner of privation	52
§ 4. 2. Convertibility of being and one: Aristotle and Averroes	55
§ 4. 3. Aquinas's ontological grounding of the convertibility of being and one	57
§ 4. 4. Aquinas's critique of the substantial conception of unity	59
§ 4. 5. Aquinas's critique of the accidental conception of unity	62
§ 4. 6. Convertibility of being and one: the one and the many	64
§ 4. 7. The proper character of unity	67
§ 4. 7. 1. The one, the good, being, and their relationship to essence and act of existence	68
§ 4. 7. 2. The ratio of unity: positive or negative?	81
§ 4. 8. Opposition of the one and the many	87
§ 4. 9. Types of transcendental unity and their characteristics	93
§ 5. Universal and formal unity	103

§ 6. Numeric unity	106
§ 6. 1. Material unity	106
§ 6. 2. Numeric unity of God	109
§ 6. 3. Numeric unity of subsistent separated substances	114
§ 7. Unity of individuals	116
§ 8. The quantitative one and categorial number	124
§ 8. 1. The quantitative one and number as kinds of quantity	126
§ 8. 2. The quantitative one and number vs. the transcendental one and many	132
A word to conclude	139
Sources	141
Literature	145
Index of persons and subjects	155