

Contents

List of Figures	vii
List of Contributors	viii
1 Philosophy of Perception: A Road Map with Lots of Bypass Roads Bence Nanay	1
Part I
Are Perceptual States Representations?	21
2 Experiences Are Representations: An Empirical Argument Adam Pautz	23
3 Are Perceptual Experiences Just Representations? Heather Logue	43
Part II
Is Perception Thin or Rich?	57
4 Rich or Thin? Susanna Siegel and Alex Byrne	59

Part III
Non-Visual Sense Modalities	81
5 Auditory Perspectives John Kulvicki	83
6 The Non-Visual Senses: The Distinctive Role of Sounds and Smells Matthew Nudds	95
Part IV
The Multimodality of Perception	107
7 Enhancement Through Coordination Casey O'Callaghan	109
8 Is Perceptual Experience Normally Multimodal? Mohan Matthen	121
Part V
Is Attention Necessary for Perception?	137
9 The Functional Roles of Attention Robert W. Kentridge and Berit Brogaard	139
10 Attention and Perception: A Necessary Connection? Wayne Wu	148
Part VI
Can Perception Be Unconscious?	163
11 Debate on Unconscious Perception Ian Phillips and Ned Block	165
Appendix: Other Controversies in Philosophy of Perception	193
Index	194