PINDAR'S POETICS OF IMMORTALITY

ASYA C. SIGELMAN

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Acknowledgments page ix

Introduction 1

1 Microstructure of Pindar's poetic time scheme: compound adjectives and lyric narratives 14
1.1 Introduction 14
1.2 Compound adjectives in Homer and in Pindar 15
1.3 The attributive adjective: dismissal of the narrator 21
1.4 Lyric narrative: an overview 23
1.5 Homeric and Pindaric lyric narrative: similarities 26
1.6 Homeric and Pindaric lyric narrative: differences 28
1.7 Conclusion: the mythical face of Pindar's poetic ego 45

2 Macrostructure of Pindar's poetic time scheme: the song-journey 50
2.1 Introduction 50
2.2 Song-address as song-journey 55
2.3 The role of xenia in Pindar's song-journey 60
2.4 Perpetual incompleteness of the song-journey and Pindaric futures 66
2.5 Coincidence of xenia and nostos 71
2.6 The realm within which the poet is host 78
2.7 Conclusion 83

3 Case study: Pythian 11 86
3.1 Introduction 86
3.2 The song-journey in Pythian 11 88
3.3 Pindar's Oresteia: rupture and healing of the unity of time 92
3.4 Hero-athlete-poet 106
3.5 Conclusion 109

4 Case Study: Pythian 4 111
4.1 Introduction 111
4.2 Analysis of Prelude (Small Cycle) 113

4.3 Analysis of Epic Narrative (Great Cycle) 120
4.4 Jason and Pindar as healers 128

Appendix A: Text and translation of Hom. Od. 19.392–468, Pyth. 9.1–75, Pyth. 11, and Pyth. 4 137
Appendix B: Pindar and Bacchylides 170
Bibliography 183
Index 199