

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION	v
THE AUTHORS	vii
THOMAS LANGAN (University of Toronto, Canada), The Future of Phenomenology	i
HERBERT SPIEGELBERG (Washington University, St. Louis), On Some Human Uses of Phenomenology	16
MANFRED S. FRINGS (DePaul University, Chicago), Max Scheler: Focusing on Rarely Seen Complexities of Phenomenology	32
JACQUES DERRIDA (Université de Paris), "Ουσία and Γραμμή": A Note to a Footnote in Being and Time	54
J. J. KOCKELMANS (Pennsylvania State University, University Park), Language, Meaning, and Ek-Sistence	94
F. J. SMITH (Kent State University, Ohio), Being and Subjectivi- ty: Heidegger and Husserl	122
JOSÉ HUERTAS-JOURDA (Pennsylvania State University, Middle- town), "You should Have Known Better!" A Phenomeno- logical Inquiry into the Mechanics of Ethical Education	157
RICHARD M. ZANER (University of Texas, Austin), Awakening: Towards a Phenomenology of the Self	171
EDWARD G. BALLARD (Tulane University, New Orleans), The Visual Perception of Distance	187
DON IHDE (New York State University, Stony Brook), Auditory Imagination	202
WALTRAUT J. STEIN (University of Georgia, Athens), Cosmo- pathy and Interpersonal Relations	216