

Contents

|                 |     |
|-----------------|-----|
| Acknowledgments | vi  |
| Preface         | vii |

PART I THOUGHTS

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| 1. Has Man an Essence?                              | 3   |
| 2. Character in Real Life                           | 21  |
| 3. The Image of Man in Twentieth Century Literature | 27  |
| 4. The Lives of Thinkers                            | 33  |
| 5. Which Philosophy is Modernistic?                 | 39  |
| 6. Philosophy and Literature                        | 51  |
| 7. The Organisation of Knowledge                    | 57  |
| 8. Authority and Autonomy in Knowledge              | 65  |
| 9. Social Objects                                   | 75  |
| 10. Tragedy   | 94  |
| 11. Spaces and Times                                | 108 |
| 12. Elitism   | 123 |
| 13. Is a Cultural Elite Necessary?                  | 134 |
| 14. Egalitarianism and a Just Society               | 143 |

PART II THINKERS

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| 15. Hobbes                              | 153 |
| 16. Hegel                               | 160 |
| 17. Victorian Philosophy                | 178 |
| 18. Absolute Idealism                   | 186 |
| 19. Ethics and the Theory of Evolution  | 207 |
| 20. Croom Robertson                     | 226 |
| 21. Lou Andreas-Salomé                  | 235 |
| 22. Freud and Philosophy                | 240 |
| 23. The Von Richthofen Sisters          | 250 |
| 24. The Frankfurt School                | 255 |
| 25. McLuhan                             | 269 |
| 26. Russell's Philosophical Development | 277 |
| 27. Popper 1: Objective Knowledge       | 288 |
| 28. Popper 2: Political Theory          | 295 |
| 29. Philosophy in America               | 310 |
| 30. C.I. Lewis                          | 317 |
| 31. W.V. Quine                          | 331 |
| 32. Mortimer Adler                      | 340 |
| 33. Polish Philosophy                   | 350 |

|       |     |
|-------|-----|
| Index | 361 |
|-------|-----|