Preface and Acknowledgments	xi
Chapter One: The Problems of Knowledge	1
1 Skeptical Problems	3
2 Knowledge and Justification	7
3 Areas of Knowledge	10
3.1 Perceptual Knowledge	10
3.2 A Priori Knowledge	11
3.3 Moral Knowledge	13
3.4 Memory	13
3.5 Induction	14
4 Theories of Knowledge	19
4.1 Doxastic Theories	19
4.1.1 Foundations Theories	20
4.1.2 Coherence Theories	20
4.2 Nondoxastic Theories	21
4.2.1 Internalism	21
4.2.2 Externalism	23
4.3 Plan of the Book	24
Chapter Two: Foundations Theories	26
1 Motivation	26
2 Basic Beliefs	27
3 Epistemic Ascent	36
3.1 Defeasible Reasons	37
3.2 The Problem of Perception	39
3.3 The Possibility of Prima Facie Reasons	45
4 Reasoning and Memory	46
5 Reconsideration of Epistemologically Basic Beliefs	58
Chapter Three: Coherence Theories	66
1 Motivation	67
2 A Taxonomy of Coherence Theories	71
2.1 Positive and Negative Coherence Theories	72
2.2 Linear and Holistic Coherence Theories	72

2.3	The Regress Argument	74
2.4	The Isolation Argument	76
3	Holistic Positive Coherence Theories	77
3.1	Lehrer's Theory	77
3.2	Problems for Holistic Positive Coherence Theories	79
4	Negative Coherence Theories	83
5	Nondoxastic Theories and Direct Realism	87
Chapter Four: Externalism			93
1	Motivation	93
2	Varieties of Probability	96
2.1	Subjective Probability	97
2.2	Indefinite Physical Probabilities	103
2.3	Definite Propensities	105
3	Probabilism	105
3.1	The Simple Rule and Bayesian Epistemology	105
3.1.1	Epistemic Probabilities	108
3.1.2	Subjective Probabilities	108
3.1.3	Mixed Physical/Epistemic Probabilities	109
3.1.4	Propensities	109
3.1.5	General Difficulties	110
3.2	Other Forms of Probabilism	112
4	Reliabilism	114
4.1	Goldman's Theory	114
4.2	Problems for Process Reliabilism	116
4.3	Other Forms of Reliabilism	121
Chapter Five: Epistemic Norms			123
1	Recapitulation	123
2	Epistemic Norms	124
3	How Do Epistemic Norms Regulate?	126
4	The Refutation of Externalism	133
4.1	Belief Externalism	133
4.2	Norm Externalism	138
4.3	Epistemological Relativism and the Individuation of Concepts	142
4.4	Conclusions	149
5	Man as a Cognitive Machine	149
5.1	Oscar I	149
5.2	Oscar II	150
5.3	Oscar III	151
5.4	Mental Representations	156

5.5	Belief Formation	161
5.6	Reason, Truth, and the Individuation of Concepts	162
6	A Naturalistic Internalism	168
7	Direct Realism	175
Appendix: The Gettier Problem			180
1	Introduction	180
2	Objective Epistemic Justification	183
3	Social Aspects of Knowledge	190
