

Contents

Acknowledgements 11

Preface 13

Part One

1 Sociology as a Discipline 19

Biology and culture 22

The divisions of social science 28

Sociology in society 35

The assembling of information 38

The construction of explanations 49

Sociology and political action 59

2 The Logic and Method of Sociological Inquiry 69

Sources of data 72

Existing material 74

Data collected with an hypothesis in view 82

The analysis of data 97

The return to reality: models and case studies 109

Part Two

3 The Family 115

Biology and culture 117

Sex, love and marriage 121

Is the family a universal institution? 126

The varying context of the family 128

The functions of the family 134

The functions of the family in industrial society 137

An example: Tally's corner 143

The 'decline' of the nuclear family 146

- 4 Education 152
 - Socialization 153
 - The growth of education 159
 - The functions of education 171
 - Education as a social system 180
 - Education and social development 192
- 5 Work, Industry and Organizations 196
 - Social consumption 198
 - Social production 200
 - Work in industrial society 203
 - Pre-industrial and industrial societies 206
 - Roles 211
 - Organizations 219
 - The structure of organizations 223
 - Total institutions 229
 - The classification of organizations 231
 - External influences on organizational behaviour 235
- 6 The Community in Modern Society 244
 - The community as a unit 249
 - 'Contrast' conceptions and theories of social change 255
 - The community in urban studies 261
 - The eclipse of community? 265
 - Community in the metropolis 272

Part Three

- 7 Social Stratification: Class, Status and Power 283
 - Class 288
 - Marx's theory of class 301
 - Status 308
 - Power 316
- 8 The Problem of Order 337
 - The problem of meaning 342
 - Social control 355
 - The unity of society 373

References 393

Further Reading 403

Author Index 411

Subject Index 413