

Contents

Texts and References	xv
Introduction	i
PART I: TOWARDS THE METHODS OF ETHICS
1. The Development of Sidgwick's Thought	13
i. Sidgwick's Life	13
ii. Religion in the 1860s	17
iii. Sidgwick's Religious Development	21
iv. Sidgwick's Writings on Religion	26
v. Sidgwick's Early Ethical Views	40
vi. Sidgwick on Knowledge and Philosophy	52
2. Intuitionism and Common Sense	63
i. Reid's Ethics	64
ii. The Scottish School	74
iii. Thomas Brown	78
iv. Alexander Smith	81
3. The Cambridge Moralists	89
i. Coleridge	91
ii. The Coleridgeans	95
iii. Whewell's Ethics: The System	101
iv. Whewell's Ethics: The Difficulties	112
v. John Grote	117
4. The Early Utilitarians	122
i. Utility and Religion	122
ii. Bentham	129
iii. Godwin	134
iv. Early Criticism	140
5. The Reworking of Utilitarianism	152
i. Utilitarians and Rules	153
ii. J. S. Mill: Philosophy and Society	163
iii. Some Further Criticisms of Utilitarianism	166

iv. The Other Utilitarians	174
v. Mill's Utilitarianism and its Reception	178

PART II: THE METHODS OF ETHICS

6. The Aims and Scope of The Methods of Ethics	191
i. The Focus on Common Sense	191
ii. The Relation of Method to Principle	194
iii. The Basic Methods	198
iv. Ethics, Epistemology, and Psychology	204
v. Ethics and Free Will	207
vi. The Limits to Synthesis	212
7. Reason and Action	215
i. The Basic Notion	215
ii. Reason, Right, Ought, and Good	221
iii. The Neutrality of Practical Concepts	226
iv. Scepticism	229
Appendix: The Development of I, iii and I, ix	233
8. Acts and Agents	237
i. Martineau's Theory	237
ii. The Religious Context of Martineau's Theory	243
iii. Sidgwick's Criticisms: The Data	247
iv. Sidgwick's Criticisms: The Theory	252
v. The Outcome of the Controversy	254
9. The Examination of Common-Sense Morality	260
i. The Role of the Examination	260
ii. The Principles of the Examination	265
iii. Common Sense Examined	269
iv. The Dependence Argument	279
10. The Self-Evident Axioms	286
i. Some Methodological Concerns	286
ii. The Axioms Stated	290
iii. The Source and Function of the Axioms	297
iv. Axioms and Substantive Principles	304
11. The Transition to Utilitarianism	310
i. Virtue and the Ultimate Good	311
ii. Pleasure	316
iii. Pleasure and the Ultimate Good	322

Contents

xiii

12. Utilitarianism and its Method	329
i. Utilitarianism Stated	329
ii. The Systematization Argument	331
iii. The Search for a Code	336
iv. Rules and Exceptions	340
v. Utilitarianism and Common Sense	349
13. The Dualism of the Practical Reason	352
i. The Viability of Egoism	353
ii. Egoism and the Systematization Argument	358
iii. The Axiom of Egoism	361
iv. The Necessity of Egoism	366
v. The Problem of the Dualism	370
vi. The Final Uncertainty	374

PART III: AFTER THE METHODS

14. Sidgwick and the Later Victorians	383
i. Evolutionism	384
ii. Idealism: F. H. Bradley	392
iii. Idealism: T. H. Green	401
15. Sidgwick and the History of Ethics	412
i. Sidgwick's History of Ethics	412
ii. Sidgwick in the History of Ethics	417

BIBLIOGRAPHIES

I. Henry Sidgwick: Manuscripts and Published Writings	423
II. (a) Checklist of Moralists, 1785-1900	433
(b) Literature on John Stuart Mill's Utilitarianism , 1861-76	441
III. General Bibliography	444

Index	457
--------------	-----