

Contents

Chapter 1. Happiness, the Supreme End	3
I. Presuppositions of the Question	3
II. The Statesman's Objective	8
III. Method and Starting Points	17
IV. What is Happiness?	24
V. Happiness Defined	34
VI. Taking Stock of the Definition	41
VII. On the Other Goods and the Scope of 'Happiness'	50
Chapter 2. Virtues and Parts of the Soul	57
I. Why an Ethics of Virtue?	57
II. Division of the Soul (I)	61
III. Division of the Soul (II)	67
IV. Preliminaries on the Development of Virtue	72
V. Virtue of Character and the Orthos Logos	74
VI. 'A Prohairesis State'	78
VII. Conditions of Virtuous Action	82
VIII. 'With Pleasure' and 'for the Sake of the Noble'	90
IX. The Status of the Mean	95
X. How We Learn to Be Good	103
XI. A Basis for Justice	110
Chapter 3. The Voluntary	124
I. General Perspectives	124
II. Strains in 'the Voluntary'	132
III. Excuses and Nonexcuses	142

IV. 'It Depends on Him'	149
V. Character as Voluntary (I)	159
VI. Character as Voluntary (II)	164

Chapter 4. Practical Wisdom 179

I. The Structure of Rational Choice	179
II. The Purpose of NE Book VI	185
III. Probing the Craft Analogy	190
IV. Against the 'Grand End' View	198
V. Practice and Production	202
VI. Thought and Desire in Rational Choice	212
VII. 'Practical Truth'	219
VIII. The Works of Reason	225
IX. End and Means in Deliberation	232
X. Character and Intelligence in Deliberation (I)	242
XI. Character and Intelligence in Deliberation (II)	250

Chapter 5. Incontinence 266

I. The Field of Incontinence	266
II. How Incontinence Is Possible (I)	274
III. How Incontinence Is Possible (II)	280
IV. Incontinent Ignorance	287
V. Essential Features and Contingent Manifestations	292
VI. Aristotle's Analysis	297

Chapter 6. Pleasure 313

I. Why the Investigation of Pleasure?	313
II. Pleasure and Natural Inclination	320
III. The Challenge of Neutralism	324
IV. Pleasure as Value-Judgment	331
V. Against the Process Theory	339
VI. Nature, Pleasure and Reason	346
VII. The Limits of Hedonism	353

Chapter 7. Aristotle's Values 366

I. New Directions from Old	366
II. The Problem	370
III. Goods and Ends in the Eudemian Ethics	373
IV. Theōria in the Eudemian Ethics	383
V. A Sketch of the Nicomachean Position	388
VI. The Need to Justify Theōria	392
VII. Divine Activity versus Human Happiness	398

VIII. Living like the Gods	408
IX. The Crown of Happiness	412
X. Leisure, Pleasure and Serious Activities	419
XI. The Best Life	427

Works Cited 439

Texts of Aristotle	439
Other Works	439

Name Index 445

Subject Index 449

Index Locorum Aristotelis 453