

TABLE OF CONTENTS

PREFACE	xiii
Comments on Bibliography and References	xiii
CHAPTER I / The Origin and Development of the Lvov— Warsaw School	1
1. The Rise of the Lvov—Warsaw School and the Periods in its Development	2
2. Kazimierz Twardowski and the Lvov Stage	2
3. The Lvov—Warsaw School Between the World Wars	9
4. World War II and the Post-1945 Period	19
5. The Typical Philosopher of the Lvov—Warsaw School	24
PHOTOGRAPHS	27
CHAPTER II / Some Philosophical Views of Kazimierz Twar- dowski	35
1. Twardowski and the Philosophical Tradition	35
2. The Conception of Philosophy	36
3. Psychologism	41
4. Twardowski on Language	43
5. Twardowski on Truth	46
6. Analysis of the Word ‘Nothing’	49
7. Problems in the Theory of Science	50
7.1. The Concept of Reasoning	50
7.2. A Priori (Rational, Deductive) versus A Posteriori (Empirical, Inductive) Sciences	50
7.3. The Humanities	52
8. Conclusion	52
CHAPTER III / The Conception of Philosophy in the Lvov— Warsaw School	54
1. Łukasiewicz	54

2. Kotarbiński	60
3. Ajdukiewicz	64
4. Czeżowski	68
5. Conclusion	74
 CHAPTER IV / The Development of Logic in the Lvov— Warsaw School: The Warsaw School of Logic	 81
1. A Concise History of Logic in the Lvov—Warsaw School	81
2. Sociological Comments on the Warsaw School of Logic	88
3. General Remarks on the Further Chapters on Logic in the Lvov—Warsaw School	96
 CHAPTER V / The Classical Sentential Calculus	 97
1. Łukasiewicz's Parenthesis-Free Symbolism and his Cri- teria of Construction of Logical Systems	97
2. The Functionally Complete Classical Sentential Calculus — Axiomatic Approaches	99
3. Partial Sentential Calculi	104
4. The Sentential Calculus with Variable Functors	107
5. Jaśkowski's System of Natural Deduction	110
6. The Metalogic of the Sentential Calculus	113
7. Addenda. Concluding Remarks	117
 CHAPTER VI / Non-Classical Logics	 119
1. Many-Valued Logics	119
2. Modal Logic	128
3. Intuitionistic Logic	135
4. Jaśkowski's Discursive Logic	137
5. Concluding Remarks	140
 CHAPTER VII / Leśniewski's Systems	 141
1. Introduction	141
2. Intuitive Formalism	145
3. Semantic Categories and Constructive Nominalism	146
4. Some Formal Properties of Leśniewski's Systems	149
5. Protothetic	151
6. Ontology	153
7. Mereology	155
8. The Controversy over Leśniewski. Conclusion	157

CHAPTER VIII / Metamathematics, the Foundations of Mathematics and the Semantic Conception of Truth	162
1. Metamathematics	162
2. Tarski's Semantic Theory of Truth. An Introduction	167
3. The Semantic Theory of Truth. The Formal Aspect	171
4. The Semantic Theory of Truth. The Philosophical Aspect	176
5. The General Conception of Semantics	181
CHAPTER IX / History of Logic and Interpretations of Traditional Logic. The Philosophy of Logic and Mathematics	185
1. History of Logic	185
2. Interpretations of Traditional Logic	188
3. The Philosophy of Logic and Mathematics	190
3.1. The Warsaw School and the Main Trends in the Philosophy of Mathematics in the 20th Century	190
3.2. The Critique of Psychologism	193
3.3. Nominalism	194
3.4. Logic and Mathematics versus Reality	196
3.5. Concluding Remarks	197
CHAPTER X / Logic, Semantics and Cognition: The Epistemology of Kazimierz Ajdukiewicz	199
1. The Conception of Meaning	199
2. Radical Conventionalism	206
3. Rejection of Radical Conventionalism	212
4. Toward Radical Empiricism	213
5. Semantics, Epistemology, Ontology	216
6. Concluding Remarks	221
CHAPTER XI / Logic, Semantics and the World: The Ontology of Tadeusz Kotarbiński	224
1. Genuine and Apparent Names	224
2. Ontological Reism: The Basic Thesis	225
3. The Problem of the Interpretation of the Fundamental Thesis of Reism	228
4. Pansomatism and Radical Realism	229
5. Reism and Materialism	232
6. Why Reism?	236
7. The Troubles of Reism	238
8. Concluding Remarks	242

APPENDIX TO CHAPTERS X—XI / Further Epistemological and Ontological Problems Discussed in the Lvov—Warsaw School	244
1. Scepticism	244
2. Foundationalism, Fallibilism, Conventionalism, Truth	245
3. What Exists?	247
4. The Mind-Body Problem	247
5. Time, Space, Causality, and Quantum Theory	248
6. Conclusion	250
 CHAPTER XII / The Philosophy of Language	 251
1. Conceptions of Meaning	251
1.1. Ajdukiewicz	251
1.2. Kotarbiński	260
2. Analytic Sentences	263
2.1. Łukasiewicz and Tarski	263
2.2. Ajdukiewicz	264
2.3. Kokoszyńska	267
3. Empty Names	269
4. Concluding Remarks	271
 CHAPTER XIII / The Philosophy of Science	 273
1. Reasoning and Its Modes	273
2. Induction, Probability, and Justification	276
2.1. Łukasiewicz; Poznański and Wundheiler	276
2.2. Hosiasson	278
2.3. Ajdukiewicz	279
2.4. Czeżowski	283
2.5. Zawirski and Mehlberg	285
2.6. Kokoszyńska	287
2.7. Concluding Remarks	288
3. The General Picture of the Scientific Method and Scientific Theories	289
3.1. The Ontology of Science and the Methods of Investigating Science	289
3.2. Heuresis	290
3.3. Justification	291
3.4. The Structure of Scientific Theories	291
3.5. Theories versus Facts	292

TABLE OF CONTENTS

xi

3.6. The Problem of Unity of Science	294
3.7. The Development of Science	294
3.8. Concluding Remarks	294
CHAPTER XIV / Once More History and Beyond	295
1. The Lvov—Warsaw School and Logical Empiricism	295
2. The Problem of the Unity of the Lvov—Warsaw School	302
3. The Lvov—Warsaw School or the Lvov School and the Warsaw School?	304
4. The Importance of the Lvov—Warsaw School	306
NOTES	309
BIBLIOGRAPHY	327
LIST OF THE PHILOSOPHERS OF THE LVOV—WARSAW SCHOOL MENTIONED IN THIS BOOK	352
INDEX OF NAMES	354
INDEX OF SUBJECTS	359