

CONTENTS

Foreword by Professor E. A. G. Robinson	page v
Authors' Preface	ix

Part One: THE RÔLE OF THE ECONOMIST IN OFFICIAL EMPLOYMENT

INTRODUCTION	3
(a) Basic Research and the Practical Orientation of Science	4
(b) Basic Research and Problems of Economic Policy	7
(c) Divergence and Convergence of Methods of Research	10
I. THE DELIMITATION OF THE PROBLEM	16
(a) The Hierarchy of Problems	17
(b) Digression into more Comprehensive Problems	19
(c) Inappropriate Solutions of the more Comprehensive Problems	21
(d) Limiting the Theoretical Foundation	23
II. SIZING UP THE PROBLEM	27
(a) The Three Elements of the Problem	27
(b) The Choice of Basic Concepts	30
III. ESTABLISHING THE AIM	34
(a) Our Own Aims and the Aims of Others	34
(b) Vague and Contradictory Aims	37
IV. DETERMINATION OF THE SITUATION	40
(a) One-sided Appreciation of the Situation	41
(b) Faulty Comparisons	43
V. THE APPRECIATION OR JUDGMENT OF ECONOMIC MEASURES	45
(a) Starting Point and Effect	45
(b) Adaptation of Measures to the Market Mechanism	48
(c) Main Effect and Secondary Effects	52
(d) Alternative and Supplementary Measures	57
VI. ON THE DIFFICULTIES OF FORECASTING	61
(a) Forecasting as a Constituent Part of the Case for an Economic Policy	61
(b) Possibilities and Difficulties of Forecasting	63
(c) Attempting to Overcome the Difficulties of Forecasting	65

VII. ADVICE ON POLICY	page 70
(a) The Obligation to Advise	70
(b) The Weighing of Gain and Loss	73
(c) Certainty of Judgment	75
(d) Judging Several Problems of Economic Policy	77
VIII. PUTTING MEASURES OF ECONOMIC POLICY INTO EFFECT	80
(a) Opposition to the Measure	80
(b) Framing Legislative Proposals	85
(c) Propaganda for the Measure	88
IX. SOME FURTHER CONSIDERATIONS	91
APPENDIX: JAN TINBERGEN'S ON THE THEORY OF ECONOMIC POLICY	95
(a) The Basic Features of Tinbergen's Theory	95
(b) Appraisal of Tinbergen's Theory	101
Part Two: THE PROBLEM OF THE ECONOMIC ORDER
INTRODUCTION	109
I. MAJOR OBJECTIVES	111
(a) The Supply of Goods	112
(b) The Method of Producing Goods	114
(c) Harmony and Antinomy of Aims	115
(d) The Origin of Aims	118
II. THE MARKET ECONOMY AS SYSTEM OF CO-ORDINATION	120
(a) The Model of Perfect Competition	120
(b) The Real Market Economy	122
(c) Guiding the Market Economy	124
III. SOCIALISM AS SYSTEM OF CO-ORDINATION	129
(a) The Basic Models of a Centrally-directed Economy	130
(b) The Problem of Co-ordination	131
(c) The Problem of Subordination	133
(d) Remodelling the Socialist System	137
IV. CO-ORDINATION BY THE ADJUSTMENT OF ORGANISED INTERESTS	141
(a) Why this Counts as a Third System	141
(b) Complete Realisation of the System of Adjusting Organised Interests Impossible	142
(c) Partial Realisation of the System of Adjusting Organised Interests	142
V. RE-SHAPING THE ECONOMIC ORDER	146
SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY	148
INDEX	150