

CONTENTS

PREFACE

page 7

I	LIBERTY, EQUALITY, FRATERNITY	II
	Argument
1	A Conservative Interpretation of History	12
2	'The Myth of the French Revolution'	15
3	The Rational Roots of Radicalism	18
	(i) Beyond the Eighteenth Century	18
	(ii) Eighteenth-Century Models	21
4	The English Fruit: Utilitarianism	30
5	Burke's Apologia	36
6	The Model Applied	42
7	The Model Decried	46
8	New Model	50
9	The Present Discontents	54
II	THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE PEOPLE	68
	Argument
1	The Rule of Law	69
	(i) Theocracy Ancient and Modern	69
	(ii) The Republican Myth	77
2	Who Shall Kill Whom?	82
3	Government as a Device	85
4	The Reign of Plenty	92
5	Shouts of Appetite	95
6	The Ultimate Question	104
III	THE PERFECTIBILITY OF THE SPECIES	115
	Argument
1	Research Unlimited	115
2	The Latest Model	118
3	Abolitions of Man	122
4	The Choice	127

IV	THE PURSUIT OF RATIONAL ENDS BY RATIONAL MEANS	131
	Argument
	1 Methods of Social Control	132
	2 Creative Law	137
	3 The Concept of Informed Social Planning	142
	4 Concept of the Political Cycle	152
	5 Liberal Education	159
	6 Restored Community	171
	7 The Public Interest	175
	8 Character of a Happy Life	183
V	PERPETUAL PEACE	198
	Argument
	1 Indefensible Defence	198
	2 The Balance of Power	201
	3 The Lost Peace	204
	4 Practical Politics	206
	5 Foreign Policy in the West	208
	6 The Alternatives to Foreign Policy	213
	7 National Interest	218
	8 The Arms Race	221
	9 Conditions of Peace	225
VI	ORDER AND PROGRESS	233
	Argument
	1 Decline and Fall	234
	2 Enlightenment and Emancipation Revisited	239
	3 Condorcet's Argument Examined	241
	4 'Progress' Rephrased	244
	5 The Concept of Universal Progressive Social Process	247
	6 Interpretation of Progress	250
	7 Measures and Limits of Progress	254
	8 Empirical Political Philosophy	260
	CONCLUSION	268
	INDEX	280