

CONTENTS

Preface page xiii

PART ONE: INTRODUCTION

- I. The Study and its Methods 3
- II. Relative Deprivation and the Concept of Reference Groups 9
- III. The Three Dimensions of Social Inequality 36

PART TWO: THE HISTORICAL BACKGROUND, 1918-1962

- IV. Changing Comparisons of Class 55
  - The Inter-War Years
  - The Second World War and After
- V. Attitudes to Status 95
- VI. Inequalities of Power and the Decline of Militancy 120
- VII. The Implications of Party Choice 136

PART THREE: THE 1962 SURVEY

- VIII. Self-assigned 'Class' 151
- IX. The Working-class Conservatives 170
- X. Reference Groups and Inequalities of Class 188
  - Incomes
  - Consumer Goods
  - Provision by the State
- XI. Reference Groups and Inequalities of Status 227

PART FOUR: CONCLUSIONS

- XII. The Assessment of Relative Deprivation 247
- XIII. A Theory of Social Justice 258
  - Inequalities of Class
  - Inequalities of Status
- XIV. Reform and its Limits 285

Contents

	APPENDICES	page 296
1.	The Sample	297
2.	The Questionnaire	299
3.	The Manual/Non-manual Distinction	314
4.	The Coding of the Open-ended Questions	317
5.	The Gap between Stated and 'Proper' Incomes	321
	List of References	322
	Index	331