

Contents

---

Acknowledgements	ix
1 Evolutionary dramas	1
2 Do science and religion compete?	10
3 Demarcation disputes	20
4 The irresistible escalator	30
5 Choosing a world	36
6 The problem of direction	48
7 Scientist and superscientist	56
8 Dazzling prospects	66
9 Black holes: Jacques Monod and the isolation of 'science'	75
10 Freedom and the Monte Carlo drama	83
11 Scientific education and human transience	91
12 Mixed antitheses	97
13 Science, scepticism and awe	105
14 The service of self and the service of Kali	115
15 Who or what is selfish?	122
16 Dreaming and waking	132
17 The limits of individualism	139
18 The vulnerable world and its claims on us	148
Notes	163
Index	173