

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	page viii
INTRODUCTION	ix
I. ON THE ORIGINS AND CHARACTER OF ANALYTICAL PHILOSOPHY	I
1. Basic Characteristics of Analytical Philosophy	I
2. On the Origins of Analytical Philosophy	8
A. The action-reaction schema as an explanation	8
B. The development of science as a necessary prerequisite	11
II. KAZIMIERZ TWARDOWSKI AND THE RISE OF THE ANALYTICAL MOVEMENT IN POLAND	24
1. Background	24
2. Twardowski's Contribution to the Philosophy of Mind	32
3. The Classical Theory of Truth	39
A. Twardowski's position	39
B. Further development of the Theory of Truth	42
4. The Formation of the Polish Analytical Movement	52
A. Twardowski as a teacher	52
B. Homogeneity of the analytical movement in Poland	54
III. JAN ŁUKASIEWICZ AND THE DILEMMA OF MODERN SCIENTIFIC PHILOSOPHY	56
1. Early Development	56
2. Creative Achievements in the Field of Mathematical Logic and Pioneer Work in the History of Logic	60
3. The Scientific Method in Philosophy and the System of Scientific Philosophy	67
4. Łukasiewicz's Attitude Towards the Vienna Circle	72
IV. TADEUSZ KOTARBIŃSKI—CONCRETISM AND PRAXIOLOGY	77
1. The Man and the Teacher	77
A. Kotarbiński—the man	77
B. Kotarbiński—the teacher	79
C. Ethics	81

Contents

2. The Principle of Clear Thinking and Common Sense	page 85
3. Reism—Pansomatism—Concretism	91
A. The formative stage of reism	91
B. The principles of reistic semantics	94
C. Imitationism and extraspectionism	97
D. A critique of The Elements	102
E. Concretism as the final stage of the development of reism	106
F. Final discussion of concretism	107
4. Attitude Towards Contemporaries	110
A. Towards logistics	110
B. Towards Marxism	111
C. Towards the Vienna Circle	113
D. Towards Twardowski	114
5. Praxiology	116
A. A few remarks about the history of praxiology	116
B. The scope and nature of praxiology	118
C. Some basic concepts of praxiology	120
D. Some illustrations of praxiological thinking	124
E. Recent developments in Poland	128
V. KAZIMIERZ AJDUKIEWICZ—EPISTEMOLOGY REFLECTED IN LANGUAGE
1. A General Characterization	131
A. Some remarks on Ajdukiewicz's style of philosophizing	132
B. An analytical attitude towards social issues	134
2. The Theory of Meaning	137
3. Radical Conventionalism	145
4. Idealism versus Realism	152
A. The first encounter	152
B. The second encounter	156
5. Methodological Empiricism	159
A. Radical empiricism and the analytic	159
B. The principle of rationalism	164
C. Towards the semantic concept of radical empiricism	166
VI. PHILOSOPHERS OF LINGUISTIC ORIENTATION
1. The Four Types of Analytical Philosophers	172
2. The Oxford Idiom and the Oxford Tradition	176
3. Władysław Tatarkiewicz and the History of Ideas	181
4. Janina Kotarbińska—the Linguistic Approach in the Philosophy of Science	190
5. Maria Ossowska—the Science of Morality	194

Contents

VII. ON THE MARGINS OF ANALYTICAL PHILOSOPHY	page 201
1. Leon Chwistek—the Multiplicity of Realities	201
2. Benedict Bernstein—the Construction of the Absolute by Means of Logic and Mathematics	205
3. Lesser Figures of the Twardowski School	206
4. Witkacy—Enfant Terrible of Polish Philosophy	210
VIII. ANALYTICAL PHILOSOPHY AND MARXISM	213
1. The Impact of Marxism on Analytical Philosophy	213
2. The Formative Stage of Analytical-Linguistic Marxism	217
3. The Main Tenets of Analytical-Linguistic Marxism	223
IX. SOME COMPARISONS WITH BRITISH ANALYTICAL PHILOSOPHY	236
1. Problem—Philosophers and Methodologists	236
2. Particular Comparisons	241
A. Moore and Twardowski	241
B. Bertrand Russell and Polish analytical philosophy	245
C. Wittgenstein—a lack of impact on Polish analytical philosophy	247
D. Ryle and Kotarbiński	250
FINAL REMARKS	259
SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHIES	262
1. Ajdukiewicz
2. Kotarbiński
3. Łukasiewicz
4. Tarski
5. Tatarkiewicz
6. Twardowski
INDEX OF SUBJECTS	266
INDEX OF NAMES	272