| PREFACE | xi |
| GLOSSARY OF NOTATION | xiv |
| I. PROPERTY ATTRIBUTION AND ITS MODES | i |
| 1. Motivation and Background | i |
| 2. Things and Properties: Backgrounds for Essentialism | 6 |
| 3. A Digression into Relations | 13 |
| 4. The Modalities of Attribution | 15 |
| 5. Essentialistic Extensionalism | 17 |
| II. ESSENTIALISTIC FOUNDATIONS | 22 |
| 1. Essentialism | 22 |
| 2. Approaches to Essentialism | 23 |
| (i) Essential Properties from Canonical Description Families | 23 |
| (ii) Essential Properties from Difference-Maintaining Properties | 27 |
| (iii) Essential Properties from Uniformity-Maintaining Properties: Typological or Taxonomic Essentialism | 28 |
| (iv) Essential Properties from Temporally Invariant Properties | 30 |
| (v) Essential Properties from Invariance Under Transformation | 32 |
| 3. Naturalistic Essentialism: The Role of Factual Foundations | 34 |
| 4. The "Plasticity" of Individuals | 37 |

| | | |
|------|---|-----|
| III. | INDIVIDUATION AND THE CONSTRUCTIVE THEORY OF POSSIBLE INDIVIDUALS | 42 |
| | 1. Actuals and Their Potentialities | 42 |
| | 2. The Individuation of Actualia (Actual Individuals) | 43 |
| | 3. The Proliferation of Actual-Variant Descriptions | 46 |
| | 4. The Realm of Supernumeraries ("Merely Possible" Individuals) | 49 |
| | 5. Rules of Individuation: (A) Individuating Actuals | 51 |
| | 6. Rules of Individuation: (B) Individuating Possibles | 55 |
| | 7. The Taxonomy of Possibilia | 69 |
| | 8. The Centrality of the Actual | 73 |
| | Appendix—Terminological Glossary | 75 |
| IV. | THE CONSTITUTION OF POSSIBLE WORLDS AND THE PROBLEM OF THE TRANS-WORLD IDENTITY OF INDIVIDUALS | 77 |
| | 1. Introduction | 77 |
| | 2. Compossibility and Possible Worlds | 78 |
| | 3. Possibility and Compossibility | 84 |
| | 4. The Problem of Trans-World Identity | 85 |
| | 5. The Centrality of the Actual | 89 |
| | 6. The Independence of Individuals and their Priority Over Worlds | 93 |
| | Appendix I—Incomplete Specifications of Worlds: World Schemata | 95 |
| | Appendix II—Trans-World Identity and Lewis' Theory of Counterparts | 102 |
| | Appendix III—Description Theory | 106 |
| | Appendix IV—Parts and Wholes | 107 |
| | Appendix V—The Trans-World Identity of Properties | 107 |

| | | |
|-------|---|-----|
| V. | THE SYSTEMATIZATION OF QUANTIFIED MODAL LOGIC | 111 |
| | 1. The Rw -calculus | 111 |
| | 2. The Introduction of Quantifiers and Modalities | 114 |
| | 3. Modality in the Actual World | 116 |
| | 4. Propositional Modal Logic | 118 |
| | 5. Quantified Modal Logic | 120 |
| | 6. Conclusion | 123 |
| VI. | EXISTENCE STIPULATIONS | 126 |
| | 1. Claims of Existence and Nonexistence | 126 |
| | 2. Is Existence A Predicate? | 128 |
| | 3. Formulating Existence-Claims | 130 |
| | 4. Existence and Necessity | 130 |
| VII. | DISPOSITIONS | 132 |
| | 1. Dispositional Properties | 132 |
| | 2. Some Formal Characteristics of Dispositional Properties | 134 |
| | 3. Can Dispositions Be Accidental? | 136 |
| | 4. Can Dispositional Properties Serve to Individuate? | 140 |
| | 5. Idiosyncratic vs. Generic Dispositions: Laws | 142 |
| VIII. | LAWS AND LAWFULNESS | 144 |
| | 1. Lawfulness | 144 |
| | 2. Laws and Dispositions | 149 |
| | 3. Modes of Possibility: A Summary | 153 |
| | 4. Law-Modifying Possibilities | 155 |
| | 5. Laws and "Novel" Supernumeraries: The Interdependence of Laws and Possible Individuals | 157 |
| | 6. Worlds and Properties | 161 |
| IX. | CONTRARY-TO-FACT SUPPOSITIONS AND COUNTERFACTUAL CONDITIONALS | 163 |
| | 1. Inadmissible Hypotheses | 163 |
| | 2. The Possible-Worlds Approach to Counterfactuals | 167 |

| | |
|--|-----|
| 3. Variant Cases | 172 |
| 4. The Restricted Nature of Counterfactual Reasoning | 173 |
| Appendix—Topological Variations on Counterfactuality | 175 |
| | |
| X. THE DOCTRINE OF INTERNAL RELATIONS | 177 |
| 1. Formulation | 177 |
| 2. Three Alternative Doctrines Regarding the Essentiality of Relations | 180 |
| 3. The Doctrine of Internality | 181 |
| 4. The Doctrine of Externality | 184 |
| 5. The Contingency View | 184 |
| 6. The Question of Acceptability | 185 |
| 7. The Upshot | 188 |
| 8. Metaphysical Impossibility Reconsidered | 189 |
| | |
| XI. A CONCEPTUALISTIC METAPHYSIC OF POSSIBILIA | 192 |
| 1. The Constructive Theory of Possibility | 192 |
| 2. The Grades of Possibility | 193 |
| 3. The Ontology of Unrealized Possibility | 195 |
| 4. The Conceptualistic Basis | 202 |
| 5. The Linguistic Foundation of Unrealized Possibility | 207 |
| 6. A Problem of Circularity | 216 |
| 7. Relations of the Real to the "Merely" Possible | 217 |
| | |
| Appendix | |
| SUMMARY OF FUNDAMENTAL RELATIONSHIPS | 220 |
