

CONTENTS

I. DISAGREEMENTS ABOUT DEFINITION	1
§ 1. What is the definition of 'definition'?	2
§ 2. Should a definition be brief?	3
§ 3. Should definitions come at the beginning or at the end?	3
§ 4. Are there indefinables?	4
§ 5. Have definitions a truthvalue?	5
§ 6. Should definitions be tautologies?	5
§ 7. Is definition a useful procedure or not?	6
§ 8. What are the species of definition?	7
§ 9. To what sort of entity does definition apply?	7
II. WORD-THING DEFINITION	12
§ 1. Meanings of the word 'definition'	12
§ 2. The fundamental classification of definitions	15
§ 3. The extent of word-thing definition	20
§ 4. The utility of word-thing definition	27
III. LEXICAL DEFINITION	35
§ 1. The nature of lexical definition	35
§ 2. Settlement of two disputes about lexical definition	38
§ 3. Nothing is lexically indefinable	41
§ 4. Lexical definition can never be perfect	52
IV. STIPULATIVE DEFINITION	59
§ 1. The nature of stipulative definition	59
§ 2. The truthvalue of stipulative definition	62
§ 3. Advantages and disadvantages of stipulative definition	66
§ 4. Rules for stipulative definition	80
V. METHODS OF WORD-THING DEFINITION	93
§ 0. There is more than one method	93
§ 1. The method of synonyms	94
§ 2. The method of analysis	96
§ 3. The method of synthesis	98
§ 4. The implicative method	106
§ 5. The denotative method	108

§ 6. The ostensive method	117
§ 7. The rule-giving method	126
§ 8. The use of equivalences in word-thing definition	132
§ 9. The definition of the non-indicative functions of a word	135
✓ § 10. The traditional rules of definition	140
VI. REAL DEFINITION	149
§ 0. Many persons have believed in real definition	149
§ 1. Real definition as the search for a nonexistent identity of meaning	152
§ 2. Real definition as the search for essence	153
§ 3. Real definition as description plus naming	156
§ 4. Real definition as word-thing definition misconceived	157
§ 5. Real definition as a tautology obtained directly from a nominal definition	158
§ 6. Real definition as the search for the cause	161
§ 7. Real definition as the search for a key	162
§ 8. Real definition as the adoption and recommendation of ideals	165
§ 9. Real definition as abstraction	170
§ 10. Real definition as analysis	171
§ 11. Real definition as synthesis	178
§ 12. Real definition as the improvement of concepts	180
§ 13. Conclusions about real definition	189
VII. DEFINITION IN MATHEMATICS	193
VIII. SOME DISCUSSIONS OF DEFINITION	201
INDEX	205