

CONTENTS

I. THE METHOD OF EXTENSION AND INTENSION	I
1. Preliminary Explanations	2
2. L-Concepts	7
3. Equivalence and L-Equivalence	13
4. Classes and Properties	16
5. Extensions and Intensions	23
6. Extensions and Intensions of Sentences	25
7. Individual Descriptions	32
8. Frege's Method for Descriptions	35
9. Extensions and Intensions of Individual Expressions	39
10. Variables	42
11. Extensional and Intensional Contexts	46
12. The Principles of Interchangeability	51
13. Sentences about Beliefs	53
14. Intensional Structure	56
15. Applications of the Concept of Intensional Structure	59
16. Lewis' Method of Meaning Analysis	64
II. L-DETERMINACY	69
17. L-Determinate Designators	69
18. The Problem of L-Determinacy of Individual Expressions	73
19. Definition of L-Determinacy of Individual Expressions	78
20. L-Determinacy of Predicators	81
21. Logical and Descriptive Signs	85
22. L-Determinate Intensions	88
23. Reduction of Extensions to Intensions	90
III. THE METHOD OF THE NAME-RELATION	96
24. The Name-Relation	96
25. An Ambiguity in the Method of the Name-Relation	100
26. The Unnecessary Duplication of Names	106
27. Names of Classes	111
28. Frege's Distinction between Nominatum and Sense	118
29. Nominatum and Sense: Extension and Intension	124
30. The Disadvantages of Frege's Method	129
31. The Antinomy of the Name-Relation	133
32. Solutions of the Antinomy	136

IV. ON METALANGUAGES FOR SEMANTICS	145
33. The Problem of a Reduction of the Entities	145
34. The Neutral Metalanguage M'	153
35. M' Is Not Poorer than M	157
36. Neutral Variables in M'	160
37. On the Formulation of Semantics in the Neutral Metalanguage M'	161
38. On the Possibility of an Extensional Metalanguage for Semantics	168
V. ON THE LOGIC OF MODALITIES	173
39. Logical Modalities	173
40. Modalities and Variables	177
41. Semantical Rules for the Modal System S_2	182
42. Modalities in the Word Language	186
43. Modalities and Variables in the Word Language	191
44. Quine on Modalities	193
45. Conclusions	202
BIBLIOGRAPHY	205
INDEX	207