

Contents

PART ONE: THEORY

- I. Self and Other 3
- II. Interaction and Interexperience in Dyads 12
- III. The Spiral of Reciprocal Perspectives 30

PART TWO: METHOD

- IV. Historical Review 49
- V. The Interpersonal Perception Method (IPM) 64
- The issues (49). The two perspectives and their two directions (53). The four relationships as seen from each perspective (54). Metaperspectives and meta-metaperspectives (55). The basic schema of the IPM (57). Patterns of conjunction and disjunction (59). Different possible spirals in dyadic interaction (62).
- VI. Disturbed and Nondisturbed Marriages 93
- Comparison of disturbed and nondisturbed marriages (73). Retest reliability and internal consistency of the data (87).
- VII. The Study of a Dyad 115
- The pattern of interaction as a whole (95).

The interaction within the separate categories of issues (101). Spirals in which there is complete conjunction (111). Spirals in which there is complete or nearly complete disjunction (113). Spiral No. 26 (115). Discussion (117). Therapists' evaluation of the results of brief marital therapy (120). Retest results after short-term therapy (122). An interpretation of clinical data (127).

VIII. Developments	163
PART THREE: THE IPM QUESTIONS	179
IPM Chart: The Joneses	220
Index	225