

Contents

Preface	xi
---------	----

PART I. THE MIND-BODY PROBLEM

1. The Mind-Body Problem	3
by Wolfgang Köhler, Dartmouth College
2. Mind-Body, Not a Pseudoproblem	24
by Herbert Feigl, University of Minnesota
3. A Neural-Identity Theory of Mind	37
by Stephen C. Pepper, University of California, Berkeley
4. Doubts about the Identity Theory	57
by Richard B. Brandt, Swarthmore College
5. The Mind-Brain Problem	68
by Elmer Sprague, Brooklyn College
6. On Parapsychology and the Nature of Man	71
by J. B. Rhine, Duke University
7. Some Objections to Behaviorism	78
by H. H. Price, Oxford University
8. In Defense of Dualism	85
by Curt Ducasse, Brown University
9. Some Comments on Dimensions of Mind	91
by P. W. Bridgman, Harvard University

CONTENTS

10. Theory-Categories in the Mind-Body Problem 95
by Abraham Edel, City College of New York
11. Whitehead's Concept of Organism and the Mind-Body Problem 100
by Howard W. Hintz, Brooklyn College

PART II. THE BRAIN AND THE MACHINE

12. The Brain and the Machine (Summary) 113
by Norbert Wiener, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
13. The Compleat Robot: A Prolegomena to Androidology 118
by Michael Scriven, Swarthmore College
14. Comments on Key Issues 143
by Satosi Watanabe, Experimental Laboratories, International Business Machines Corporation
15. Minds and Machines 148
by Hilary Putnam, Princeton University
16. On Consciousness in Machines 180
by Arthur C. Danto, Columbia University
17. Machines, Brains, and Models 188
by Roy Lachman, University of Hawaii
18. On Computers and Semantical Rules 190
by R. M. Martin, University of Texas
19. Love in a Machine Age 193
by Paul Weiss, Yale University
20. On the Reduction of Sentiment 198
by Fritz Heider, University of Kansas
21. A Pragmatic Note 202
by Sidney Hook, New York University

PART III. CONCEPT-FORMATION

22. Concept-Formation in Philosophy and Psychology by Stephen Toulmin, University of Leeds	211
23. Concept-Formation in Philosophy and Psychology by B. F. Skinner, Harvard University	226
24. Psychology and the Analysis of Concepts in Use by Ernest Nagel, Columbia University	231
25. The Stratification of Concepts by N. R. Hanson, Indiana University	235
26. A Comment on Toulmin by Sidney Morgenbesser, Columbia University	238
27. Are Complex, Considered Preferences Only "Simulated"? by H. Van Rensselaer Wilson, Brooklyn College	248
28. Wishing Won't—But Wanting Will by Gertrude Ezorsky, Hunter College	252
29. A Spade Is a Spade, So Mind Your Language by Raziel Abelson, New York University	259
Index	277