

CONTENTS

‘COME HITHER, ALL YE THAT LABOUR AND ARE HEAVY LADEN, I WILL GIVE YOU REST.’

For Revival and Increase of Inwardness.

Part I

	PAGE
I. The Invitation. Three interpretations	11
II. Halt!	23
i. Objections. Six queries	26
ii. The Inviter	40
A. The First Period of His Life	43
B. The Second Period of His Life	57
III. The Invitation and the Inviter	61
IV. Christianity as the Absolute; Contemporaneousness with Christ	66
The Moral	71

Part II

‘BLESSED IS HE WHOSOEVER IS NOT OFFENDED IN ME.’

A Biblical Exposition and a Christian Definition of Concepts.

Prelude	79
The Purport of this Exposition in brief	83
A. The possibility of the offence which has not to do with Christ as Christ (the God-Man), but with Him as a mere human individual who comes into collision with the established order	86
B. The possibility of the essential offence which has to do with exaltation, for the fact that an individual man speaks or acts as though he were God, says of himself that He is God, having to do therefore with the qualification of God by the composite term God-Man	96
C. The possibility of the essential offence which has to do with lowliness, for the fact that He who gives Himself out to be God, shows Himself to be the poor and suffering and at last the impotent man	105
Supplement 1	108
Supplement 2	108
Thoughts which determine the meaning of ‘the offence’ strictly so called.
§ 1. The God-Man as a ‘sign’	124
§ 2. The servant-form is unrecognizableness (an incognito)	127

CONTENTS

- § 3. The impossibility of direct communication 132
- § 4. The impossibility of direct communication is in Christ's case the secret of His suffering 136
- § 5. The possibility of the offence lies in the refusal to employ direct communication 139
- § 6. To refuse to employ direct communication is to require faith 140
- § 7. The object of faith is the God-Man, precisely because the God-Man is the possibility of the offence 143

Part III

FROM ON HIGH HE WILL DRAW ALL MEN UNTO HIMSELF

- Seven Christian Expositions 145