PART ONE

THE RÔLE OF PHILOSOPHICAL THINKING IN HUMAN LIFE

CHAPTER	PAGE
	What Is Philosophy? ..... 1
	Philosophy and Religion, Science, and Art. Is Philosophy Critical and Reflective Thinking? Abstract Concepts and Theory. The Central Problems of the Meaning of Human Experience. Philosophy Presupposes Existent Knowledge. The Interpretation and Evaluation of Knowledge. The Analysis and Clarification of Ideas and Methods.
I	The Organization and Interpretation of Experience 11
	The Average Man Demands a Faith. But Philosophy Cannot Create a Faith. How Philosophy Proceeds in Interpreting Experience. Organizing Principles Have Been Varied and Manifold. Philosophy Has Given Many Different Interpretations. Philosophy Has Reached No Final Truth. The Many Answers Are All Answers. Principles of Interpretation Must Be Relevant to Living Experience. Philosophic Experience Has Varied. Distinctive Types of Philosophic Experience. Major World-Views Persist because of Distinctive Types of Experience. The Limits of a Common Interpretation.
II	The Cultural and Historical Function of Philosophy 25
	Philosophical Thinking as a Social and Cultural Enterprise. Philosophy Reorganizes and Reinterprets Social Experience. Social Experience as Given Embodies a Meaningful Pattern. "Expression" and "Criticism" Are Both Reorganizations of This Pattern. Philosophy Presupposes the Values of an Organized Culture. Social Institutions Generate Meanings, Aims, and Values. The Major Intellectual Tension in Western Society. The Persisting Demand for Reinterpretation and Adjustment. Social and Intellectual Expansion Has Demanded Constant Reinterpretation. The Cultural and Historical Genesis of Philosophical Problems. Philosophy as the Intellectual Phase of Cultural Change.

- IV     The Cumulative Achievements of Philosophy ..... 3
 The Clarification and Evaluation of Methods and Standards. The Analysis of Assumptions. The Refinement of Philosophical Concepts. The Store of Insights and Visions. Introduction to Succeeding Parts.

PART TWO

THE ANALYTICAL FUNCTION OF PHILOSOPHY

- V     The Basic Methods of Inquiry ..... 4
 What is a Method? Common Sense. Faith: Three Senses of the Term. Faith as Tenacity. Faith as the Will to Believe. Faith as Expectation Based on Experience. Critical Remarks. Authority. The Authoritarian Method. Critical Remarks. Dogmatic and Expert Authority. Intuition: the View of Knowledge as Immediate or "Self-evident." Critical Remarks.
- VI    The Scientific Method ..... 5
 The Progressive and Public Character of Scientific Inquiry. The Rôle of the Individual. The Provisionality of Scientific Results. Formal and Empirical Science. The Deductive and Hypothetical Character of Formal Science. The Meaning of "Formal." Empirical Science and Common Sense. The Abstractness of Empirical Science. The Essential Procedure of Empirical Science. Illustration. "Explanatory" Hypotheses. Explanation and Verification. The Meaning of "Induction." The Interdependence of Fact and Theory. Empirical Science as an Orderly Structure, or "System." The Place of Insight in Science. Untestable Hypotheses.
- VII   The Rôles of Reason and Experience in Human Knowledge ..... 7
 Rationalism and Empiricism. Historical Illustrations. The Problem of "A Priori" Knowledge: the Rationalist Claim. The Empiricist Interpretation. The Rationalist Conception of Knowledge as Intuitive and Deductive. Illustration in Descartes. Empiricist Conceptions of Intuition. Reason and Experience in Science. The Possible Synthesis of Emphases within Rationalism and Empiricism. Broader and Narrower Senses of "Reason." Extreme Empiricism, or Sensationalism. What Is

"Experience"? Experience as Something Accumulated. Experience as the Quality of Sensation or Emotion. Experience as Consciousness. Experience as Deliberate Observation. Experience as the World of Fact. Experience as a Relation or Interaction. The Logic of a Philosophy.

VIII Problems concerning the Scope and Extent of Knowledge ..... 90

When Have We Assurance that We "Know"? Dogmatism and Scepticism. Descartes' Problem. Methodological Scepticism. Scepticism as an Attitude: Kant's Critical Philosophy. Scepticism concerning Extra-empirical Knowledge. The Kantian Contrast of Knowledge and Faith. Historical Illustrations of the Contrast. Extreme Scepticism: a Fourth Type. The Argument from Historical Changes in Science. The Argument against Any Method. Critical Remarks on the Latter Argument. Critical Remarks on Anti-scientific Scepticism. Further on Methodological Scepticism. Outgrowths of Modern Empiricism: Positivism. The Positivist Limitation of Inquiry. The Positivist Interpretation of Scientific Method. Critical Remarks.

X Communication and Intuition ..... 105

How Important Is Language in Knowing? Bergson's View. Points of Difference between Symbolical and Intuitive Knowledge. Intuition, Symbols, and Empirical Science. The Meaning of Non-symbolical Intuition. Critical Remarks. Scepticism and Non-symbolical Intuitionism. Insight and Analysis in Science. Knowledge and Communication. General Methodological Implications. Other Conceptions of Intuition: the Romantic Craving for Immediate Insight. Mysticism. Critical Remarks on Intuitionism in General. Art and Intuition. Does the Artist Communicate?

XI The Problem of Meaning ..... 119

Pragmatism as Experimentalism; Genuine and Pseudo-Problems. Literal Meaning and Psychological Meaning. The Experimental Standard of Definition. The Requirement of Scientific Verifiability. The Broad Conception of Experience and Verification. Kantianism, Positivism, and Experimentalist Pragmatism. Pragmatism as Practicalism: the View of James. The Meaning of "Practical" in James and Peirce. Critical Comparison of Experimentalism and Practicalism. Pragmatism as Dealing with the Knowledge-Situation. Instrumentalism: the Experimentalism of Dewey. Reflective Thought as a Means to the Solution of Problems. Ideas as Instruments. The Implication of Instrumentalism.

XI

What Is Truth? .....

The "Correspondence" Theory of Truth. Critical Remarks. The "Coherence" Theory of Truth. Critical Remarks. Pragmatic Theories of Truth. Truth and Value: the "True" as the "Useful." Critical Remarks. The True as the "Workable." The Reinterpretation of "Agreement" or "Correspondence." Truth as Success in Inquiry.

XII

The Concept of Value .....

The Status of Values. The Subjectivist Interpretation. Values as Objective Qualities. Critical Remarks: the Relational Status of Values. Value and Pleasure. Critical Remarks. Value as Indefinable. Critical Remarks. How Are Values Tested? Sensed Qualities and Known Qualities. Value and Preference or Desire. Critical Remarks. "The Desired" and "the Desirable."

PART THREE

THE SPECULATIVE FUNCTION OF PHILOSOPHY

XIII

The Supernaturalistic World-Perspective .....

What Is Supernaturalism? The Concept of God. The Attributes of God. Anthropomorphism. Minimal Supernaturalism: "Deism." "Miracle": Two Senses. The Idea of Revelation. The Argument for a First Cause (the "Cosmological" Argument). Critical Remarks. The Argument from Order in Nature (the "Teleological" Argument). Two Meanings of "Purpose." Critical Remarks. The "Ontological" Argument. Critical Remarks. The Rationalistic Character of the Traditional Arguments; Kant's Analysis. Two Interpretations of the A Priori. The Argument from Man as a Moral Being. Critical Remarks. The Claim of Mysticism. Critical Remarks. The Argument from Alleged Miracles; Hume's Analysis. Lay Arguments. Supernaturalism and Moral Values. Moral Standards as Based on Divine Will. The Problem of Evil. Five Attempts at Resolution of the Problem. An Alternative Statement of the Problem. The Empirico-Pragmatic Difficulties of Supernaturalism. Example: Meaning of "Absolute Perfection." Example: Meaning of "Eternal," "Infinite," Etc. Example: Meaning of "Outside Nature," Etc. Methodological Conclusions.

XIV

Materialism and Its Implications .....

What Is the World-View of the "Common Man"? Problems Confronting Philosophic Speculation.

Materialism: One Version of Naturalism. The Historical Affinity of Materialism and Physical Science. The Thesis of Materialism; Classical Statements. Mechanism. Aristotle on "Efficient" and "Final" Causation. Materialist Exclusion of Final Causes. Terminology: "Determinism," "Mechanism," "Teleology." Hume's Analysis of Causation. The "Reductive" Character of Materialism. Advantages Claimed for the Materialist Hypothesis. Particular and General: the Nominalist-Realist Issue. Plato on the Distinction between Sensation and Knowledge. Merits and Limitations of Nominalism. Aristotle's Theory of Matter and Form. General Remarks on Materialism. Materialistic Reduction Nominalistic but Not Consistently So. Reply to Alleged Advantages (1) and (2). Reply to (3) and (4). Oversimplification in Materialist Reduction: the "Reductive Fallacy." Empiricist and Rationalist Tendencies in Materialism. Naturalism and Ethics.

XV The Emphasis on Mind ..... 201

What Is a Dualism? Dualism of Matter and Soul. The Version of Descartes. Its Relation to Supernaturalism and to Mechanism. Critical Remarks. Dualism of Knower and Known: Locke's Problem. Representative Perception: "Ideas." "Primary" and "Secondary" Qualities of Objects. The Notion of Substance. Implications of Lockean Dualism. The Starting-Point of Berkeley. Berkeley's Idealism. Basic Presupposition of the Berkeleyan Theory. First Argument: the Unexperienced as Inconceivable. Second Argument: Unintelligibility of Material Substance. Third Argument: Inseparability of Primary and Secondary Qualities. Fourth Argument: Discontinuity of Dualism. Reply to Anticipated Objections. Critical Remarks. Hume's Critique of Spiritual Substance. The Idealistic Strain in Kant. "Phenomena" and "Noumena." Objective Idealism. Its Motivation. Spiritual Atomism: Leibniz. The Idea of the "Absolute": Hegel. Critical Remarks; Empirico-pragmatic Difficulties. The Poetic Interpretation of Speculative Systems.

XVI The Broader Conception of Nature ..... 226

Materialistic and Critical Naturalism. Critical Naturalism and the Scientific Method. The Ancestry of Critical Naturalism. Spinoza's Conception of Nature. Naturalistic Rejection of "Appearance-Reality" Dualisms and of "Reduction." The Reinterpretation of Causality. Determinism and Novelty. Three Meanings of "Chance." The "Free Will" Problem. Some Clarifications. "Freedom" as a Form of Determination. Self-Determination and Human Intelligence. The Status of the Non-material. The Interpretation of Mind. Knowledge as a Natural Event. The Interpretation of Value. The Interpretation of Purpose. The Naturalistic Philosophy of Experience.

- XVII Ethical and Aesthetic Values ..... 243
- World-Views and Human Values. Problematic Questions concerning Human Values. Moral Values: the Subject-Matter of Ethics. What Constitutes a "Moral" Situation? Conditions of Moral Conduct. Means and Ends. Conventional and Critical Morality. The Hebraic-Christian Ethical Tradition. Some Forms of Ethical Intuitionism. Fundamental Differences among Intuitionists. A Basic Assumption in the Authoritarian and Intuitionistic Approaches. Consequences: the Continuity of Moral Conduct. The Nature of General Principles in Ethics. The Pleasure-Criterion: Hedonism. Criticism of Hedonism. Pleasure and Happiness. Happiness as Harmony, the Development of Man in Society. The View of Plato and Aristotle. The Epicurean Ideal. The Adaptability of Non-eudaemonistic Teachings. Aesthetic Values in Human Experience. Factors in Artistic Creation. The Nature of Art: Three Interpretations. Critical Comparison of the Three Theories. The Aesthetic and the Moral.
- XVIII The Interpretation of Religion ..... 271
- Philosophical and Sociological Approaches to Religion. What Is Religion? Two Typical Definitions. Worship and Ritual. Organized and Personal Religion. Religions and Religious Attitudes. Humility, or Consciousness of Individual Subordination, as Basic in Religion. Further on the Meaning of "Worship." Animism and Supernaturalism. Mythological Pantheism. The Pantheism of Spinoza. The Relation between Organized Religion and Science. Idealistic Philosophies of Religion. Panpsychism and Creative Evolution. The Idealistic Interpretation of Traditional Religious Concepts. The Naturalistic-Humanistic Philosophy of Religion. Santayana's Interpretation of Religion. The Concept of "God" Reinterpreted. The Significance of Prayer. Piety, Spirituality, and Charity. The Significance of the Historical Framework of Religion. "Ultimate Religion." The Approach of Dewey. Two Senses of "Religious Experience." The Meaning of "The Religious." The Conflict of Religion and Religious Values. Faith of Religion vs. Moral Faith, Free Intelligence, Natural Piety. Common Faith: the Social Character of the Religious Attitude. Conclusion.
