PREFACE		vii
CHAPTER 1. THE PRESENT VERSION OF CONSTRUCTIVE TYPE THEORY (1995)		1
i	Types and Objects (Non-Dependent and Non-Function)	9
ii	Dependent Types and Dependent Objects (or Families of Types and Fcts. in the Oldfashioned Sense)	19
iii	Function Types and Function Objects (or Function Types and Fcts. in the Modern Sense)	24
iv	Digression. Explicit Substitutions	33
v	Digression. Explicit (Abbreviatory) and Partial (Conditional) Definitions in Constructive Type Theory	45
vi	Sets and Elements	49
vii	Propositions and Proof-Objects	59
viii	Digression. Syntax and Semantics/the Theory of Indirect Reference in Constructive Type Theory	67
ix	Constructive Set Theory: Ground Sets, Dependent Sets and Sets of Different Sizes	74
x	Constructive Logic	125
xi	The Curry–Howard Isomorphism or the Propositions-as-Sets Interpretation	158
xii	An Extension of the Curry–Howard Isomorphism to Sequents or the Sequents-as-Types Interpretation	161
CHAPTER 2. METATHEORETICAL CONSIDERATIONS		167
i	The Identity Issue: The Many Faces of Identity in Constructive Type Theory	167
ii	The Judgement Issue	177
iii	Traditional Metamathematical Issues: Consistency, Completeness, Decidability, in a New Framework	203
iv	Constructive Type Theory and the Traditional Points of View on the Foundations of Mathematics	211

CHAPTER 3. HISTORY OF CONSTRUCTIVE TYPE THEORY (1970–95)	219
i    Forms of Symbolic Expressions/Sentences/Judgements	219
ii   The Notion of Type and the Splitting of Type (Set/Type)	222
iii  From Metamathematical Semantics to Direct Semantics and Other Semantical Matters	224
iv   Constructive Type Theory as a Mathematical Language to be Used	249
v    Kinds of Equality/Identity	271
vi   Universes	283
vii  Variations on the Basic Stock Rules $\Pi$ , $\Sigma$ , $+$ , $N_n$ , $N$	291
viii Monomorphism/Polymorphism and Decidability/Undecidability of Type Checking	299
ix   Appendix. The Battle with the Direct Semantical Turn: From Type Theory to Logical Theory and Back	300
CHAPTER 4. PHILOSOPHICAL AND TECHNICAL PREHISTORY OF CONSTRUCTIVE TYPE THEORY (1880–1970)	311
i    Philosophical Sources of Constructive Type Theory: Two Approaches to Logic	311
ii   Technical Sources of Constructive Type Theory	318
CONCLUSION	347
