

CONTENTS

Preface

1. METHODS OF PROCEEDING	1
Introductory	1
Selecting a topic	2
The irrelevance of most library research	2
Resolving controversies	4
Appreciating philosophers of an earlier period	4
The outline	5
Preparation of the final draft	6
Writing blocks	7
2. RULES OF THE GAME	9
Plagiarism as a legal wrong (violation of another person's property right)	9
Plagiarism as a moral wrong (cheating and lying)	9
Quotation, attribution, and acknowledgment	10
Alternative formats for notes	12
Acceptable abbreviations in the notes	14
3. CRITERIA FOR GRADING STUDENT PAPERS	17
Clarity	17
Presence of argument	17
Cogency of argument	18
Originality, subtlety, imaginativeness	18
Degree of difficulty	19
Ordering the criteria	20
4. GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF GOOD WRITING	22
Clarity again	22
Simplicity	22
Economy	24
Padding	24

Repetitiveness	25
Redundancy	26
Misplaced emphasis	26
Pretentiousness and fancy words	27
A miscellany of further judgments	29
5. MISTAKES OF GRAMMAR	30
Grammatical and nongrammatical errors	30
Criteria of correct grammar	30
A sampler of grammatical rules and their problems	33
The vanishing apostrophe	33
Ain't misbehavin'	35
Between or among?	36
Conjunctions as first words	37
Ungrammatical danglers	38
The problem of "sexist pronouns": some proposed solutions	39
Double negatives	43
Different from or different than?	43
Which or that?	44
Prepositions as last words	47
Split infinitives	48
Who (or whoever) or whom (or whomever)?50
Summary	53
6. SOME COMMON MISTAKES IN DICTION	56
Diction and grammar	56
Linguistic correctness and controversy	56
Constantly changing usage	57
Linguistic liberals and conservatives	58
Sample mistakes in diction	59
"Criteria" for "criterion"	59
"Disinterested" for "uninterested"	60
"Enormity" for "enormousness"	61
"Fortuitously" for "fortunately"	62
"Infer" for "imply"	62
"Refute" for "rebut"	63
"Irony" for "coincidence"	63
7. STYLISTIC INFELICITIES	66
The concept of style	66

Prose writing as a source of pleasure	66
The paragraph	68
Motion metaphors	71
Smoothing the flow	74
Conspicuous over-use of favorite words	75
Forget adornment and eloquence	77
Types of poor writing style	77
8. LOGIC AND LANGUAGE	80
Correct and incorrect reasoning	80
Deductive and inductive reasoning	80
Sentences and propositions	81
Arguments	82
Premises as unproved "assumptions"	82
Logical necessity versus psychological certainty	83
Necessity and contingency	84
Three types of impossibility	85
9. BASIC DEDUCTIVE LOGIC: SOME FRAGMENTS	87
Possible truth value combinations	87
Validity and soundness	88
Definition of truth-functional connectives	89
Necessary and sufficient conditions	92
Valid deductive argument forms: a sampler	93
10. LOGIC WITHOUT NECESSITY	102
Some informal fallacies	102
Some inductive inferences, good and bad	104
Begging the question	105
Analogical reasoning	106
A sampler of fallacies	107
11. VARIETIES OF PHILOSOPHY PAPERS	111
Rules of strategy	111
Manageable philosophical tasks	111
Modest partial reasons	112
Interpretation	112
Generalization and counterexample	113
Definition	114
Other categories of philosophical papers	116