

Contents

Particulars 1982

page 5

BOOK I THE TRISTAN MYTH

1. Behind the Vogue of the Novel	15
2. The Myth	18
3. Topicality of the Myth, or Reasons for its Analysis	23
4. What the Romance of Tristan Seems to be About	26
5. Some Riddles	30
6. Chivalry v. Marriage	32
7. The Love of the Romance	35
8. The Love of Love	38
9. The Love of Death	42
10. The Love-Potion	46
11. Unhappy Mutual Love	50
12. 'Old Tune So Full of Sadness'	54

BOOK II THE RELIGIOUS ORIGINS

1. The Natural and Sacred 'Obstruction'	58
2. Eros, or Boundless Desire	60
3. Agape, or Christian Love	66
4. East and West	68
5. Reaction to Christianity in European Manners	71
6. Courtly Love: Troubadours and Cathars	74
7. Heresy and Poetry	81
8. Objections	90
9. Arab Mystical Poetry	101
10. A General View of Courtliness	107

Contents

11. From Courtly Love to Arthurian Romance	page 122
12. From Celtic Myths to Arthurian Romance	126
13. From Arthurian Romance to Wagner, via Gottfried of Strasbourg	131
14. What Has Been Ascertained So Far	136

BOOK III PASSION AND MYSTICISM

1. How the Problem Stands	141
2. 'Tristan' as the Account of a Mystical Experience	143
3. Curious but Inevitable Transpositions	151
4. Orthodox Mystics and the Language of Passion	153
5. Courtly Rhetoric in Spanish Mysticism	159
6. A Note on Metaphor	164
7. The Mystic Deliverance	167
8. The Twilight of Passionate Love	169

BOOK IV THE MYTH IN LITERATURE

1. Of the Influence of Literature on Conduct	173
2. The Two Roses	175
3. Sicily, Italy, Beatrice, and Symbols	177
4. Petrarch, the Converted Rhetor	180
5. The Inverted Ideal of 'Gauloiserie'	185
6. The Later History of Chivalry down to Cervantes	188
7. 'Romeo and Juliet', and then Milton	189
8. 'L'Astrée', or From the Mystical to the Psychological	193
9. Corneille, or Giving Battle to the Myth	196
10. Racine, or the Myth Unloosed	200
11. 'Phèdre', or 'Punishing' the Myth	202
12. Eclipse of the Myth	206
13. Don Juan and the Marquis de Sade	209
14. 'La Nouvelle Héloïse'	213
15. German Romanticism	217
16. The Myth Withdraws Into the Human Breast	221
17. Stendhal, or The Fiasco of the Sublime	224
18. Wagner, or Completion	227

Contents

19. The Myth is Popularized	page 232
20. The Glorification of Instinct	236
21. The Spread of Passion into Every Sphere	238

BOOK V LOVE AND WAR

1. How They Are Similar	243
2. The Warlike Language of Love	244
3. Chivalry: a Rule of Love and War	246
4. Tournaments, or The Myth in Action	248
5. Cannon and Condottieri	251
6. Classic Warfare	254
7. Fighting in Lace Cuffs	257
8. Revolutionary War	259
9. National War	262
10. Total War	264
11. The Transplanting of Passion into Politics	267

BOOK VI THE MYTH v. MARRIAGE

1. The Breakdown of Marriage	275
2. The Modern Notion of Happiness	280
3. 'It's Wonderful to be in Love!'	281
4. Marrying Iseult?	283
5. From Lawlessness to Eugenics	287
6. The Significance of the Breakdown	291

BOOK VII ACTIVE LOVE, OR KEEPING FAITH

1. We Must Take Our Stand	299
2. A Critique of Marriage	300
3. Marriage as a Decision	303
4. On Keeping Troth	306
5. Eros Rescued by Agape	311
6. Paradoxes of the Western Attitude	315
7. Beyond Tragedy	319

Appendix INCONCLUSIVE
AND SCIENTIFICO-POLEMICAL
POSTSCRIPT

1. Influence and Attacks	327
2. Ambiguity of Influences	328
3. Catharist Renaissance in the Twentieth Century	329
4. Retort to My Critics	331
5. A Mystical Troubadour: Henry Suso	337
6. Troubadours and Cathars	340
7. Tantrism and Courtesy	349
8. On the Invention of Love in the Twelfth Century	352
9. Final Imprecation	362
10. Misunderstanding on Morals	366
11. Passion and Incest	369
12. Passion and Allergy	372
13. Passion and Drugs	374
14. Passion and Marriage	376
Index	380