

CONTENTS

EDITOR'S PREFACE	xi
CHAPTER 1 FUNDAMENTAL THEMES	1
A. The Facts: The Case of the Speluncean Explorers	1
B. Natural Law	4
C. Legal Indeterminacy	8
D. Positivism	12
E. Realism	17
F. Formalism	21
G. Pragmatism	26
H. Justice	32
CHAPTER 2 POSITIVISM	37
A. The Command Theory of Law	37
1. Positivism and Common Law	38
2. Jurisprudential Positivism	40
3. The Pure Theory of Law	50
4. Positivism and the Separation of Law and Morals	56
B. The Central Role of Language	57
1. On Core and Penumbra	57
2. Hart's Core and Penumbra	61
3. Rules and Principles	64
4. A Broader Notion of "Rule"	70
5. Computerizing Substantive Law	72
CHAPTER 3 NATURAL LAW	81
A. Procedural Natural Law	81
1. The Internal Morality of Law	81
2. Reply to Professor Fuller	84
3. Rejoinder to Professor Hart	85
4. The Inner Morality of Law	87
5. A Moral Aspect of Procedural Natural Law	87
B. Substantive Natural Law	90
1. The Case of the Grudge Informer	90
2. The Grudge Informer	91
3. Comment on the Grudge Informer	95
4. Universal Ethics?	97
5. Universal Morality	97

CHAPTER 3—Continued

C. Legal Obligation	105
1. The Moral Dilemma of Positivism	105
2. The Moral Obligation to Obey the Law	108
3. There Is No Moral Obligation to Obey the Law	111
4. Law Is Only a Fact, Not a Value	115
5. Legal Scholarship	116
D. Obligation and the Community	117
1. Respect for the Law	117
2. The Death of Socrates	119
3. The Spontaneous Ordering of Human Relations	129
4. Common Law and Reciprocity	131

CHAPTER 4 FORMALISM 133

A. Autonomy	133
1. The Law Wishes to Have a Formal Existence	133
2. The Semantics of Judging	135
3. The Rule of Statutes	137
4. Legal Formalities	139
B. Deductive Logic	139
1. Logic in the Law	139
2. The Role of Deductive Logic	141
3. Hard Cases	142
4. Restating Dworkin's Argument	148
C. Stare Decisis	149
1. The Justification of Precedent	149
2. The Concept of Precedent	150
3. Rule-based Similarity	152
4. The Precedent Court as Legislator	152
5. Fact-based Similarity	153
6. A Return to Stare Decisis	155
7. Donoghue v. Stevenson	161
8. The Indeterminacy of Holdings	164
9. Generalizations	166
D. Justification	166
1. Justification and Wisdom	166
2. Justification of Decisions	167
3. Legalistic Justification	167
E. Reasoning by Analogy	168
1. The Analogical Development of the Common Law	168
2. The Growth of the Law	169
F. Hohfeldian Analytic Jurisprudence	169
1. Analytic Jurisprudence	169
2. Hohfeld's Analytic Jurisprudence	171
3. The Hohfeldian Approach to Law	171
4. Entitlements	175
5. Critique of Hohfeld	177
6. The Structure of Entitlements	177

CHAPTER 5 REALISM	181
A. The Prediction Theory of Law	181
1. The Bad Man Theory	181
2. The Bramble Bush	182
3. Is Law an Exact Science?	182
4. Critique of Realism	182
5. Law and the Modern Mind	183
6. Real Rules	188
7. Gargantua and Pantagruel	189
8. Why Judges Write as They Do	190
9. The Bad Man Revisited	190
10. The Prediction Theory Works Only for Lawyers	192
11. The Prediction Theory Cannot Work for a Judge	192
12. The Prediction Theory Can Work for a Judge	192
B. Easy Cases	199
1. Easy Cases Are Unlitigated Cases	199
2. Unlitigated Cases May Not Be Easy	201
C. The Judge's Perspective	203
1. The Judicial Reasoning Process	203
2. Imagining a Judge's Reasoning Process	204
CHAPTER 6 PRAGMATISM	219
A. Indeterminacy	220
1. The Case of the Under-aged President	220
2. General Propositions	223
3. Extending Rules to Hypothetical Situations	224
4. Logic and Law	225
5. Wittgenstein on Rules	225
B. Plain Meaning	226
1. Plain Meaning	226
2. United States v. Locke	227
C. Anti-Formalism	234
1. Is Strict Formalism Impossible?	235
2. An Appreciation of Kress's Result	237
D. Pragmatism	238
1. Pragmatism	238
2. A Pragmatist Manifesto	238
2. John Dewey: Law, Logic and Pragmatism	239
4. The Entropy of Rules	244
5. Legal Complexity	244
6. Pragmatic Indeterminacy	246
CHAPTER 7 JUSTICE	249
A. Morality and Justice	249
1. The Pure Theory of Law	249
2. Recognizing Injustice	249

CHAPTER 7—Continued

3. The Subjectivity of Justice	250
4. The Objectivity of Justice	250
5. Justice and Equality	251
B. The Tension Between Law and Justice	253
1. The Sims Affair	254
2. Thomas Sims’s Case	255
3. The Antislavery Judge	257
C. Lawyers and Justice	260
1. The Role of The Lawyer in D’Amato’s Jurisprudence	260
2. Elmer’s Rule	260
D. Compromise as Exact Justice	268
1. The Common Law Should Provide for Compromise Verdicts	268
2. The Common Law Should Not Provide For Compromise Verdicts	270
E. Justice as Part of the Content of Law	270
1. How Cases Are Decided	270
2. Justice vs. Law	270
3. The Newer Jurisprudence	271
4. On the Connection Between Law and Justice	271
F. Justice and Adjudication	282
1. The Adversary System	282
2. Advocacy and Justice	287
3. Adjudication and Justice	287
EDITOR’S EPILOGUE	289