

CONTENTS

Dedication	5
Foreword	6
Avant propos	8
Acknowledgement	11

PART ONE

Exploring Indian Philosophy	17-118
1. Indian Philosophy Movement	19-30
2. Back to Dignāga	31-48
(i) Modern Studies in Dignāga, (ii) The Movement, Back to Dignāga, (iii) Dignāga and Vasubandhu, (iv) Dignāga and Dharmakīrti, (v) Dignāga and Western Philosophers, (vi) Modern Renaissance in Buddhist Studies.
3. Nayavāda And Many-Valued Logic	49-62
4. The Futher of Modern Sāṃkhya	63-86
(i) Vijñāna Bhikṣu, (ii) The Metho- dology of SPB, (iii) General Innovat- ions of Vijñāna Bhikṣu, (iv) Meta- physical Theories of Vijñāna Bhikṣu, (v) Ethics of Vijñāna Bhikṣu.
5. The Method of Self-references	87-102
(i) The Self-references of Madhusūdana, (ii) The Table of Self-references, (iii) Chronological Use of the Table, (iv)

Philosophical Use of the Table, (v) Madhusūdana's Progress, (vi) Madhusūdana's Use of Self-references, (vii) The Research-Value of the Method.

6. Non-Patañjala Rājayoga 103-107

7. Ravidasa's Vision of Man 108-118

- (i) The Voice of Ravidasa,
- (ii) The Existential Doubt and the Indubitable,
- (iii) His Vision of Man,
- (iv) The Real Man,
- (v) The Double Bond.

PART TWO

Comparative Religion and Philosophy 119-218

8. Traditions of Comparative Religion 121-163

- (i) Ancient Traditions,
- (ii) Medieval Traditions,
- (iii) The Meaning of Philosophy,
- (iv) Kabir,
- (v) Nanak,
- (vi) Dara Shikoh,
- (vii) Malik Mohammed Jāisi,
- (viii) Prānāth,
- (ix) Social and Political Implications,
- (x) Conclusions.

9. A Comparative Study of Indian and Persian Philosophy 164-177

- (i) Pioneers of Comparative Philosophy,
- (ii) Analysis of Indian Philosophy,
- (iii) Analysis of Persian Philosophy,
- (iv) Resultant Similarities.

10. Indian Views of Theological Statements 178-194

11. Ramatirtha's Existentialism 195-205.

12. Recent Indian Attitude to Religion 206-218

PART THREE

The Search for New Ideas (i) 219-330

13. The Metaphysical Basis of Non-Violence 221-232
(i) Concept of Ahimsā, (ii) The Positive Character of Non-Violence, (iii) Social Dimension of Non-Violence, (iv) New Science of Non-Violence.
14. The Concept of Sarvodaya 233-256
(i) Sarvodaya Movement, (ii) The Meaning of Sarva, (iii) The Meaning of Udaya, (iv) Sarvodaya Dialectic.
15. Gandhi's Concepts of Man and Society 257-271
(i) Three Currents of Gandhian Thought, (ii) Ancient Hinduism, (iii) Anarchism, (iv) Sarvodaya Society, (v) A New Concept of Man, (vi) Revolutionary Humanism, (vii) Philosophy of Social Work.
16. Dr. Bhagavan Das and New Trends in Indian Philosophy 272-288
(i) The Rebel in Dr. Bhagavan Das, (ii) Towards A New Definition of Philosophy, (iii) New Methods of Philosophy, (iv) New Language of Philosophy, (v) Indian View of the History of Western Philosophy, (vi) Vedānta Dialectics and Dynamics, (vii) Towards A Complete Philosophy of Life.
17. Two Recent Trends in Indian Philosophy 289-302
18. Social Relevance of Philosophy 303-313

19. Meaning of Freedom 314-330
 (i) Who is free ?, (ii) Three Classes of Meanings of Freedom, (iii) Ontological Category, (iv) Epistemological Idea, (v) Axiological Ideal.

PART FOUR

- Investigations into Advaita 331-450
20. Irrefutability of Metaphysics 333-345
21. The Perennial Nature of Being 346-354
22. Śaṅkara's Dialectic 355-377
 (i) Śaṅkara's Innovations, (ii) The Structure of Dialectic, (iii) Śaṅkara's Dialectic and Kant's Criticism, (iv) The Perennial Value of Advaita.
23. Śaṅkara and Philosophy of Science 378-389
 (i) Śaṅkara's View of Science, (ii) Śaṅkara on Categories.
24. Advaita as a Philosophy of Science 390-408
 (i) Vedāntic Inquiry, (ii) Vedāntic Appraisal of Cosmology, (iii) Advaita Epistemology, (iv) Epistemological Yoga, (v) Three Views of Epistemology.
25. Perceptual Validity 409-450
 (i) Preliminary Definitions, (ii) Validity of Self-perception, (iii) Validity of Perception, (iv) Validity of Percepts
- Index of Names. 451
 Index of Subjects. 458
 Errata. 467