

Contents

	Foreword to the First Edition	vii
	Introduction to the Second Edition	xi
I	Change and the Industrial System	21
II	The Imperatives of Technology	30
III	The Nature of Industrial Planning	39
IV	Planning and the Supply of Capital	51
V	Capital and Power	61
VI	The Technostructure	74
VII	The Corporation	85
VIII	The Entrepreneur and the Technostructure	98
IX	A Digression on Socialism	109
X	The Approved Contradiction	119
XI	The General Theory of Motivation	136
XII	Motivation in Perspective	146
XIII	Motivation and the Technostructure	154
XIV	The Principle of Consistency	163
XV	The Goals of the Industrial System	169
XVI	Prices in the Industrial System	181
XVII	Prices in the Industrial System (Continued)	190
XVIII	The Management of Specific Demand	198
XIX	The Revised Sequence	211
XX	The Regulation of Aggregate Demand	219
XXI	The Nature of Employment and Unemployment	232
XXII	The Control of the Wage-Price Spiral	244
XXIII	The Industrial System and the Union I	257
XXIV	The Industrial System and the Union II: The Ministerial Union	268
XXV	The Educational and Scientific Estate	276

XXVI	The Industrial System and the State I	289
XXVII	The Industrial System and the State II	299
XXVIII	A Further Summary	309
XXIX	The Industrial System and the Cold War	315
XXX	The Further Dimensions	331
XXXI	The Planning Lacunae	341
XXXII	Of Toil	349
XXXIII	Education and Emancipation	356
XXXIV	The Political Lead	364
XXXV	The Future of the Industrial System	373
	An Addendum on Economic Method and the Nature of Social Argument	384
	Index	395