

CONTENTS

Abbreviations ix

Introduction 1

Part I. WOLFGANG SCHLUCHTER

- Chapter I. The Paradox of Rationalization:
On the Relation of Ethics and World 11
1. Ethico-religious Forms of World Rejection:
The Indian and the Judeo-Christian Tradition 22
 2. Ethico-religious Forms of World Mastery:
Catholicism and Protestantism 32
 3. The Dialectical Development of the Rationalism of World Mastery: Religion and Science 45
- Excursus: The Selection and Dating of the Works Used 59

- Chapter II. Value-Neutrality and the Ethic
of Responsibility 65
1. The Character of "Science as a Vocation" and
"Politics as a Vocation" 65
 2. Value-Neutrality and Ethic of Responsibility
as Methodological and Ethical Categories 76
 3. Value-Neutrality and Ethic of Responsibility
as Institutionalized Value Systems 92
 4. Advantages and Limits of the Weberian Model 106
- Excursus: The Question of the Dating of "Science
as a Vocation" and "Politics as a Vocation" 113

Chapter III. Charisma and the Counterculture	119
1. History and Sociology	119
2. Socio-historical Model and Secular Theory	124
3. A Model: The Charismatic Community of Ideological Virtuosi	128
4. A Secular Theory: The Charisma of Reason and the Impact of Marxism	132
5. Application: Charisma in the Counterculture	136
Chapter IV. Religion and Revolutionary Beliefs	144
1. The Issue of Religious Secularization	144
2. A Secular Theory of Modern Revolutionary Beliefs	147
3. The Model of Ideological Virtuosi and Social Marginality	154
4. Religious Virtuosi Against Church and State	159
5. The Counterculture Revisited	162
Chapter V. Duration and Rationalization: Fernand Braudel and Max Weber	166
1. The French Annales School and German Antecedents	166
2. Two Approaches to Structural History	172
3. Duration, Model, and Secular Theory	178
4. Two Views of Capitalism	182
5. Rationalization and la longue durée : China and the West	188
Epilogue: Weber's Vision of History	195
1. Levels of Historical Analysis: Sociological, Historical, Situational	195
2. Lessons of History: Swimming Against the Stream	201
Acknowledgments	207
Index	209

Contents

Introduction	ix
Rediscovery of the Old Content of Marxism	1
Chapter 1 The Marxist Concept of the Individual	49
Chapter 2 The Individual and His Products (The Problem of Alienation)	103
Chapter 3 The Individual and History (The Problem of Freedom)	139
Chapter 4 Marxist Humanism	167
Chapter 5 Communism and the Individual	183
Conclusion	249
Endnotes	257