

Contents

Preface	page 6
Introduction
1. Purpose and Procedure	13
2. Prefiguration	18
Part One: The Shortcomings of the Restrictive Conception	25
I. Vicissitudes and Vacillations
1. Pronounced Contrasts and Unaccounted Contiguities
a. The Emergence of the Pattern and its Background	29
b. Elaboration	36
c. The Inconsistent Pattern and the Critique	42
2. Consummation and Approximation
a. The Pitfalls of Pushing the Case to the Extreme	48
b. Discordant Admixtures	54
II. Reorientation and Anticipations
1. Reconsideration and Restrictive Reverberations	63
2. Neglected Prototypes
a. Michels's Law of Transgression	68
b. Weber's Conception of Charisma	72
c. Mannheim: the Inverted Paradigm	80
Part Two: The Case for the Inclusive Conception	89
III. Basic Linkages
1. The Attitude towards Change—a Situational Criterion	91
2. General Criteria
a. Coherence and Correspondence	96
b. The Conception of Structure	99
3. The Ideological Composite
a. The Components and their Configuration	102
b. The Bifurcation of Ideological Argumentation	108
c. Meta-ideological Principles and the Ideological Composite	112

d. The Elaborate Definition	page 117
IV. Pragmatism versus Ideology
1. Interests and Moral Principles
a. Untenable Confrontations	123
b. Self-defeating Concessions	129
2. Attitudes and Beliefs
a. Intensity and Content of Commitment	136
b. Confines of Ascription	143
V. Class Interests, Ideology and Reality
1. Beliefs and Interest-Orientation
a. The Behavioural Separation of Class Consciousness from Ideology	149
b. Interest-based and other Beliefs	152
2. Commitment and Objective Findings
a. Science and Ideology	154
b. The Experiential Barrier to Distortion	159
3. Limits of Disagreement	161
Part Three: Ideologies in Action	171
VI. Fundamental and Operative Ideology
1. Antecedents and the Difference	175
a. Semantic and Substantive Intimations	176
b. The Marxist Matrix	181
2. Correspondence and Deviation: Paradigms	185
a. Schematic Exemplification	186
b. General Examples	190
c. Directions of Adaptation	192
3. The Character of the Ideology and the Distance Between its Dimensions	197
a. Divergence in Liberal and Communist, and Proximity in Fascist Revolutions	198
b. Proximity in Liberal and Fascist, and Divergence in Communist Regimes	200
c. Distance and Rigidity	205
VII. Reconstruction of the Left-Right Continuum	209
1. Two-dimensionality in a Multi-issue Framework	210
2. The Two Sets of Core-issues	214
3. Two-dimensional Ranking
a. Method of Presentation	217

b. The Socio-economic Issues	page 220
c. Specifically Political Issues	224
4. The Sum Total	227
VIII. Ideological Change	233
1. Concessions and Fidelity: the Universal Mix with a Difference	234
2. Convergence and its Mistaken Evaluation
a. The Politics of Consensus	241
b. Vote-catching and Ideological Distinctiveness	248
3. The Pressure for Acknowledgment of Change and its Mechanism
a. The Ubiquity of the Quest and the Limitation	255
b. Scriptures and Books	260
c. The Mechanism: Explication and Implication	263
Epilogue	273
Notes	279
Appendix 1: A Bibliographical Sample	317
Appendix 2: Rich and Poor Belief Systems—Fixed and Firm Beliefs	319
Appendix 3: Ideology: Operative and Inoperative, by Purpose and Function, Manifest and Latent	321
Appendix 4: The Co-ordination of Orientations with Numbers—a Caveat and a Justification	325
Appendix 5: Spatial Overview of the Two-tier Multi-issue Left-Right Ranking	327
Bibliography	331
Index	345