

Table of Contents

---

CHAPTER	PAGE
PART ONE: THE ROOT-METAPHOR THEORY
I. The Utter Skeptic . . . . .	1
1. World Hypotheses as Objects in the World
2. The Position of the Utter Skeptic
II. Dogmatists . . . . .	11
1. Definition of a Dogmatist
2. The Constituents of Belief
3. Conviction and Credibility
4. Criteria of Belief
5. The Dogma of Infallible Authority
6. The Dogma of Self-evident Principles
7. The Dogma of Indubitable Fact
8. Legitimate Uses of Authority and Certainty
III. Evidence and Corroboration . . . . .	39
1. Common Sense
2. Tension between Common Sense and Refined Knowledge
3. Types of Corroboration in Refined Knowledge
4. Data
5. Data and Positivists
IV. Hypotheses . . . . .	71
1. Views about Hypotheses
2. Scope and Precision
3. World Hypotheses Demanded by Structural Corroboration
4. World Hypotheses Include Data
5. Evidence and Interpretation Merged in World Hypotheses
6. Structural versus Conventionalistic Hypotheses

CHAPTER	PAGE
V. Root Metaphors . . . . .	84
1. Root Metaphors Induced from World Theories
2. Can Logical Postulates Make World Theories?
3. The Root-Metaphor Method
4. Maxim I: A World Hypothesis Is Determined by Its Root Metaphor
5. Maxim II: Each World Hypothesis Is Autonomous
6. Maxim III: Eclecticism Is Confusing
7. Maxim IV: Concepts Which Have Lost Contact with Their Root Metaphors Are Empty Abstractions
VI. Examples of Inadequacies in World Hypotheses . . . . .	115
1. Tests of Adequacy
2. The Animistic World Hypothesis, an Example of Inadequate Precision	- 1120
3. An Example of Empty Abstractionism	- 8.124
4. The Mystic World Hypothesis, an Example of Inadequate Scope
5. An Example of Eclecticism	- 27 - 136
PART TWO: THE RELATIVELY ADEQUATE HYPOTHESES
VII. A General View of the Hypotheses . . . . .	141
1. Comparisons among the Four Hypotheses
2. The Trends of Eclecticism
3. The Approach to the Four Hypotheses
VIII. Formism . . . . .	151
1. Root Metaphor and Categories of Immanent Formism
2. The Theory of Types
3. Classes
4. Root Metaphor and Categories of Transcendent Formism

TABLE OF CONTENTS

xiii

CHAPTER	PAGE
5. Amalgamation of the Immanent and the Transcendent Categories of Formism
6. Concrete Existence
7. Truth in Formism
8. The Transition to Mechanism
IX. Mechanism . . . . .	186
1. Two Poles of Mechanism
2. The Mechanistic Root Metaphor
3. The Mechanistic Categories
4. Discrete Mechanism
5. Consolidated Mechanism
6. Secondary Categories
7. Mechanistic Theory of Truth
X. Contextualism . . . . .	232
1. The Contextualistic Root Metaphor
2. Derivation of the Contextualistic Categories
3. Quality
4. Strands and Context of Texture
5. References of Strands
6. Individual Textures
7. Operational Theory of Truth
XI. Organicism . . . . .	280
1. The Root Metaphor of Organicism
2. The Categories of Organicism
3. An Illustration
4. Application of the Categories
5. Time and Truth
PART THREE: SUMMARY, CRITICISMS, AND ANSWERS
XII. Review and Conclusions . . . . .	317
1. A Review of the Argument
2. The Criticisms
3. The Answers	