

Contents

	Preface	vii
	Philosophical Inheritance	I
I	The Revolt From Hegel	19
	Bertrand Russell	20
	His Approach to Philosophy	22
	The Theory of Descriptions and the Theory of Types	25
	His Theories of Knowledge and of What There Is	31
	G. E. Moore	40
	Principia Ethica	41
	Moore and Prichard	48
	The Refutation of Idealism	55
	The Defence of Common Sense	59
II	Pragmatism	69
	William James	69
	The Character of James's Pragmatism	70
	Radical Empiricism	75
	James's Theory of Truth	79
	C. I. Lewis	83
	His Theories of Knowledge and Meaning	84
	His Moral Philosophy	102
V	Wittgenstein, Popper and the Vienna Circle	108
	The Tractatus and its Sequels	108
	Moritz Schlick, Otto Neurath and Rudolf Carnap	121
	Karl Popper on Induction	131

CONTENTS

	The Concentration on Syntax	134
	Tarski's Theory of Truth	136
	The Fate of the Circle	138
V	Wittgenstein, Carnap and Ryle	142
	The later Wittgenstein	142
	Carnap and Semantics	157
	Gilbert Ryle and the Concept of Mind	164
VI	Physicalism	170
	Broad on Mind and Matter	170
	Strawson's Concept of a Person	178
	Armstrong's Materialism	180
	Davidson's Argument	187
	Summary	189
VII	The Philosophy of R. G. Collingwood	191
	The Influence of Croce	192
	The Theory of Absolute Presuppositions	197
	Causality and the Idea of Nature	205
	The Idea of History	209
VIII	Phenomenology and Existentialism	214
	The Foundation in Brentano and Husserl	214
	Maurice Merleau-Ponty	216
	His Account of Perception	216
	On the World as Perceived	223
	The Early Work of Heidegger and Sartre	226
IX	Later Developments	234
	Linguistic Philosophy	234
	J. L. Austin	234
	Noam Chomsky	239
	W. V. Quine	242
	Nelson Goodman	253
	Michael Dummett	262
	Essentialism	267
	Index	271