

Contents

Preface to the ICS Publications Edition	IX
Editor's Introduction	XI
Foreword	1

First Treatise: Sentient Causality

Introduction	2
--------------------	---

I. Causality in the Realm of Pure Experiences

§1. Original and Constituted Current of Consciousness	9
§2. Experience Classifications and Unity of the Current ...	11
§3. Association by Contact	13
§4. Causal Conditionality of Experiences	14

II. Sensate Reality and Causality

§1. Consciousness and Sentience	21
§2. The Sensate Mechanism	26
§3. Causal Laws and Determination of the Sensate	32

III. Mental Living and Motivation

§1. Motivation as Basic Lawfulness of Mental Living	39
§2. Motivation in the Realm of Information: "Paying Attention"	47
§3. Attitudes: Their Adoption and Denial	48
§4. Free Acts	52

IV. Impulse and Inclination

§1. Inclinations and Attitudes	61
§2. The Structuration of the Impulses	65
§3. Motivation of Inclining	68
§4. Inclining and Willing	70

V. The Intermeshing of Causality and Motivation
§1. Causal Conditionality of Acts	74
§2. Influencing of the Sensate Mechanism
by the Contents of Experience	75
§3. The Co-Operation of Causality and Motivation:
Sensate and Mental Lifepower	79
§4. Causality and the Efficacy of Will	87
§5. The Problem of Determination	92
Conclusion	115

Appendices

I. On the Possibility of a Deduction of Sensate
Categories from the Idea of an Exact Psychology	117
II. Münsterberg's Attempt at Grounding
an Exact Psychology	121

Second Treatise: Individual and Community

Introduction	129
I. The Experiential Current of the Community
§1. The Composition of Communal Experiences	133
§2. Components of the Experiential Current	145
a) Sensuality and Sensory Intuition	145
b) Categorical Acts	151
c) Affective Acts	157
d) Confluence of the Communal Experiences
into Super-Individual Experiential Currents	165
§3. The Joining of the Experiences in the Current	167
a) Association	167
b) Motivation	169
c) Causality	172
(With an Excursus on Sentient Contagion)	175
d) Efficacy of Will	191

II. Community as a Reality: Its Ontic Composition

- §1. The Community as Analog of an Individual Personality 196
- §2. The Community's Lifepower and Its Sources 201
 - a) Lifepower as a Property of Community 201
 - b) The Lifepower of Individuals as a Source for the Lifepower of Their Community 203
 - c) Outsiders as Power Sources for the Community: Indirect Impacts 206
 - d) The Significance of Social Attitudes
for the Lifepower of the Community 210
 - e) Objective Sources of Lifepower 216
- §3. Sentient Abilities and the Community's Character ... 222
 - a) The Absence of Lower Sentient Capabilities
in the Psyche of the Community 223
 - b) Intellectual Abilities 225
 - c) The Specific Character Properties,
"Soul" and "Core" of the Person 226
- §4. The Fundamental Relationship of Individual and Community 238
 - a) Commonality of Experiential Structuration
as a Basis of Social Unions 239
 - b) Individual and Mass: "Mass Contagion" 241
 - c) Individual and Association 255
 - d) Individual and Community 261
 - aa) Organic Nature of the Community 261
 - bb) Character of the Community and Typical Character of the Community Member ... 262
 - cc) The Genesis of Community: Reciprocal Dependence of Individual and Community 264
 - dd) Character, Soul, and Mind of the Community 272
 - ee) Various Types of Communities 276
 - ff) Representatives of Types of Community and Carriers of Communal Life 279

e) Mixed Modes of Social Unions	283
f) The Social Types	291
Concluding Consideration: The Distinction in Principle Between Sentient and Mental Being, Psychology and Humanities	295
Index	315