

CONTENTS

---

Concluding Unscientific Postscript to Philosophical Fragments
1

PREFACE
5

INTRODUCTION
9

Part One

THE OBJECTIVE ISSUE OF THE TRUTH OF CHRISTIANITY
19

CHAPTER I

The Historical Point of View
23

§ 1. Holy Scripture
24

§ 2. The Church
34

§ 3. The Evidence of the Centuries for the Truth of Christianity
46

CHAPTER II

The Speculative Point of View
50

Part Two*THE SUBJECTIVE ISSUE, THE SUBJECTIVE INDIVIDUAL'S RELATION TO THE TRUTH OF CHRISTIANITY, OR BECOMING A CHRISTIAN

59

Section I*SOMETHING ABOUT LESSING

61

CHAPTER I*An Expression of Gratitude to Lessing

63

CHAPTER II*Possible and Actual Theses by Lessing

72

1. *The subjective existing thinker is aware of the dialectic of communication

72

2. *In his existence-relation to the truth, the existing subjective thinker is just as negative as positive, has just as much of the comic as he essentially has of pathos, and is continually in a process of becoming, that is, striving

80

3. *Lessing has said that contingent historical truths can never become a demonstration of eternal truths of reason, also that the transition whereby one will build an eternal truth on historical reports is a leap

93

4. *Lessing has said: If God held all truth in his right hand and continual striving in his left, he would choose the latter

106

- a. A logical system can be given 109
- b. A system of existence cannot be given 118

Section II

THE SUBJECTIVE ISSUE, OR HOW SUBJECTIVITY
MUST BE CONSTITUTED IN ORDER THAT THE ISSUE
CAN BE MANIFEST TO IT
127

CHAPTER I

Becoming Subjective

What ethics would have to judge if becoming subjective were not the highest task assigned to a human being; what must be disregarded in a closer understanding of this task; examples of thinking oriented to becoming subjective 129

CHAPTER II

Subjective Truth, Inwardness; Truth Is Subjectivity
189

APPENDIX

A Glance at a Contemporary Effort in Danish Literature
251

CHAPTER III

Actual Subjectivity, Ethical Subjectivity;
the Subjective Thinker

§ 1. What It Means to Exist; Actuality
301

§ 2. Possibility Superior to Actuality; Actuality Superior to Possibility; Poetic and Intellectual Ideality; Ethical Ideality
318

§ 3. The Contemporaneity of the Particular Elements of Subjectivity in the Existing Subjective Individual; Contemporaneity as the Opposite of the Speculative Process
343

§ 4. The Subjective Thinker; His Task, His Form, That Is, His Style
349

CHAPTER IV

The Issue in Fragments: How Can an Eternal Happiness Be Built on Historical Knowledge?

DIVISION 1

For Orientation in the Plan of Fragments

§ 1. That the Point of Departure Was Taken in Paganism, and Why
361

§ 2. The Importance of a Preliminary Agreement about What Christianity Is Before There Can Be Any Question of a Mediation of Christianity and Speculative Thought; the Absence of an Agreement Favors Mediation, Although Its Absence Renders Mediation Illusory; the Supervention of an Agreement Prevents Mediation
369

§ 3. The Issue in Fragments as an Introductory Issue, not to Christianity but to Becoming a Christian
381

DIVISION 2

The Issue Itself

The individual's eternal happiness is decided in time through a relation to something historical that furthermore is historical in such a way that its composition includes that which according to its nature cannot become historical and consequently must become that by virtue of the absurd
385

A

PATHOS

387

§ 1. The Initial Expression of Existential Pathos, the Absolute Orientation (Respect) toward the Absolute τέλος Expressed through Action in the Transformation of Existence—Esthetic Pathos—the Illusiveness of Mediation—the Monastic Movement of the Middle Ages—Simultaneously to Relate Oneself Absolutely to One's Absolute τέλος and Relatively to Relative Ends

387

§ 2. The Essential Expression of Existential Pathos: Suffering—Fortune and Misfortune as an Esthetic Life-View in Contrast to Suffering as a Religious Life-View (Illustrated by the Religious Address)—the Actuality of Suffering (Humor)—the Actuality of Suffering in the Latter State as a Sign That an Existing Individual Relates Himself to an Eternal Happiness—the Illusion of Religiousness—Spiritual Trial—the Basis and Meaning of Suffering in the Former State: Dying to Immediacy and Yet Remaining in the Finite—an Upbuilding Diversion—Humor as the Incognito of Religiousness

431

§ 3. The Decisive Expression of Existential Pathos Is Guilt—That the Inquiry Goes Backward Rather Than Forward—the Eternal Recollection of Guilt Is the Highest Expression of the Relation of the Guilt-Consciousness to an Eternal Happiness—Lower Expressions of the Guilt-Consciousness and Corresponding Forms of Satisfaction—Penance of One's Own Making—Humor—the Religiousness of Hidden Inwardness

525

The Intermediate Clause between A and B

555

B

THE DIALECTICAL

561

- § 1. The Dialectical Contradiction That Constitutes the Break: to Expect an Eternal Happiness in Time through a Relation to Something Else in Time
570
- § 2. The Dialectical Contradiction That an Eternal Happiness Is Based on the Relation to Something Historical 574
- § 3. The Dialectical Contradiction That the Historical under Consideration Here Is Not Something Historical in the Ordinary Sense But Consists of That Which Can Become Historical Only against Its Nature, Consequently by Virtue of the Absurd 578

APPENDIX TO B

The Retroactive Effect of the Dialectical on Pathos
Leading to a Sharpened Pathos, and the Contemporaneous Elements of This Pathos
581

a. The consciousness of sin
583

b. The possibility of offense
585

c. The pain of sympathy
585

CHAPTER V

Conclusion
587

Becoming or Being a Christian Is Defined Objectively
607

Being a Christian Is Defined Subjectively
610

APPENDIX

An Understanding with the Reader
617

A First and Last Explanation
[625]