

---

Contents

Introduction	ix
William L. McBride and Martin Beck Matušík
Part 1. An Overview
1 Bringing Philosophy into the Twenty-First Century: Calvin Schrag and the Phenomenological Movement	5
Gary B. Madison
Part 2. Transversal Rationality
2 “Where Are You Standing . . . ?”: Descartes and the Question of Historicity	31
Robert C. Scharff
3 “Catch Me If You Can”: Foucault on the Repressive Hypothesis	52
Sandra Bartky
4 Transversality and Geophilosophy in the Age of Globalization	74
Hwa Yol Jung
5 The Ethics of the Glance	91
Edward S. Casey
6 Decentered Subjectivity, Transversal Rationality, and Genocide	116
Bruce Wilshire
Part 3. The Self after Postmodernity
7 Transversal Liaisons: Calvin Schrag on Selfhood	129
Fred Dallmayr
8 Schrag and the Self	152
Bernard P. Dauenhauer

9	Calvin Hears a Who: Calvin O. Schrag and Postmodern Selves Linda Bell	165
10	Romantic Love Martin C. Dillon	179
Part 4. The Fourth Cultural Value Sphere
11	Transcendence, Heteronomy, and the Birth of the Responsible Self Merold Westphal	201
12	In Search of a Sacred Anarchy: An Experiment in Danish Deconstruction John D. Caputo	226
Part 5. Communicative Praxis
13	The Interruptive Nature of the Call of Conscience: Rethinking Heidegger on the Question of Rhetoric Michael J. Hyde	253
14	Structure, Deconstruction, and the Future of Meaning David Crownfield	270
15	In Defense of Poiesis: The Performance of Self in Communicative Praxis Lenore Langsdorf	281
16	The Professions, the Humanities, and Transfiguration Victor Kestenbaum	297
17	Response to Contributors Calvin O. Schrag	315
	Publications of Calvin O. Schrag	329
	Notes on Contributors	337