

The Ruffin Series No. 2

A Publication of the Society for Business Ethics

ENVIRONMENTAL CHALLENGES TO BUSINESS

Joel Reichart and Patricia H. Werhane, Editors

Patricia H. Werhane and Joel Reichart, Introduction	1
Section I: Business and the Environment
Carolyn Merchant, Partnership Ethics: Business and the Environment	7
George G. Brenkert, Partners, Business and the Environment	19
Section II: Corporate Environmental Strategies and Ecology
Paul Shrivastava, Ecocentering Strategic Management	23
Laura Westra, Integrating the Social Contract and the Ecological Approach	45
Section III: Consumption
Mark Sagoff, Do We Consume Too Much?	53
Rogene A. Buchholz, Toward a New Ethic of Production and Consumption	75
Sandra B. Rosenthal, The Four Good Reasons for Limiting Consumption: A Pragmatic Perspective	85
Ernest Partridge, How Much is Too Much?	91
Gordon G. Sollars and R. Edward Freeman, Sagoff's Environmentalism: An Economic and Ethical Critique	101
Section IV: New Paradigms for Environmentally Sustainable Business
William A. McDonough, A Boat for Thoreau	115
Michael Gorman, Imaginative Design Challenges to 'Do We Consume Too Much?'	135
Section V: A Life-Centered Approach
R. Edward Freeman and Joel Reichart, Toward a Life-Centered Ethic for Business	143
Bryan G. Norton, Clearing the Way for a Life-Centered Ethics for Business	159
Section VI: Some Difficult Dilemmas In Industrial Ecology
Kristen Shrader-Frechette, Ethics and the Challenge of Low Dose Exposures	167
Vivian E. Thomson, Getting the Lead Out: Grab-Bag Ethics in Environmental Policymaking	185
Section VII: The Environment as a Global Stakeholder
Lee E. Preston, Global Economy; Global Environment: Relationships and Regimes	205
Lisa Newton, A Scaffold for Muir: A Logic for Environmental Protection	219
Edward Stead and Jean Garner Stead, Earth: A Spiritual Stakeholder	231
Notes on Contributors	245